STREET CAR CRASHED INTO A STEEL WAGON

Four Men Were Seriously and Several Others Slightly Hurt by the Collision.

Four men were seriously injured and several others slightly hurt by being thrown from the running board of a Franks-town avenue car when it collided with a heavy wagon at Thirty-third street and Penn avenue about 6 o'clock last night. The seriously injured men are:

FRED GIGLER of No. 1113 Lang avenue; right leg badly crushed and cut; at the West Penn hospital.

LEWIS BOSELL, lives at No. 249 Omega street; both legs crushed and bruised about the body; at the West Penn hospital.

JOHN BUCKER, lives in Cabinet street, cut and bruised.

LEWIS HEIMBUECHER, cut and bruised on the face and body.

The car was crowded with passengers, and when the stop was made at Thirty-third street several more were taken on. A large wagon used to haul iron and steel was in the center of the track when the car started. The driver attempted to get out of the way, but did not clear the rail until the street car bumped into the wagon frame.

A part of the wagon swept the men from the running board. Many on the rear of the car jumped off. The car was soon stopped and the passengers who had escaped injury went to the assistance of the others.

An ambulance was called and Gigler and Boswell were taken from a physician's office to the West Penn hospital. The other two men were able to go home in carriages.

DEATH CAUSES A STRIKE.

Men Refuse to Cross Railroad Tracks to Work at Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The accidental killing of James Gallagher, aged 60, by a train while he was on his way to work at the Youngstown Iron Sheet and Tube Company's plant last night caused 200 puddlers, 25 bar mill men and many of the men in the sheet mill to refuse to go to work. The entire plant may be shut for the rest of the week.

The yards have more than 30 tracks, and the men are compelled to cross the tracks on their way to work. Nearly 12 men have been killed on the tracks. The company has started the erection of an overhead bridge, and hopes to have it completed by Saturday, after which the men will return to work.

FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED BY REMINGTON

Not Convinced That His Brother Died by His Own Hand.

POST MORTEM HELD AT WILLIAMSPORT

All Who Were Present Decline to Discuss New Phase of Case.

BURIAL IS DELAYED TILL JUST AT SUNSET

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 21.—Early this evening stories were circulated here that startling developments would soon arise in the Remington shooting affair. Between 8 and 9 o'clock the rumors took tangible shape to the effect that proof had been found to establish the theory that Robert Remington had not committed suicide, but had been murdered. From an apparently reliable source it was learned that a bullet taken out of the brain of the dead man during the autopsy today did not fit the revolver found by the side of the supposed suicide in the Newport clubhouse.

When Attorney Seth T. McCormick was informed of the rumor he said he was surprised that he had not heard of it before.

"It is not strange, however," he said, "for I have been in my office all the evening receiving the report of the surgeons who performed the autopsy. I do not want you to construe my refusal to answer any questions into the idea that I believe Mr. Remington was murdered. It is a dangerous thing to even discuss such a thing. A man must be very careful when he does so."

When Mr. McCormick left his office he carried a satchel, and explained that he intended to leave for Philadelphia at midnight.

Denies Trip Is Significant.

"No; I am not going to Newport to work up a case," he said, in answer to a question. "I planned my trip before I knew of the death of Mr. Remington."

"Does the bullet taken from Mr. Remington's head fit the chamber of the revolver?" Mr. McCormick was asked.

"I refuse to answer that," he replied, decidedly.

It is said that Edward Remington entertains a suspicion of foul play, which originated before he left Newport with the body. Mr. Remington was asked for a statement. He replied that he would neither deny nor affirm anything relative to his brother's death except that the autopsy performed today revealed that the bullet in the mouth caused death.

When asked if the bullet found imbedded in the dead man's brain fitted the revolver by his side he declared that he had nothing further to say. Asked if developments in the case could be expected, he said time alone would tell.

Mr. Remington and his attorney, Mr. McCormick, as well as the physicians who performed the autopsy, were together in secret conference until late tonight and their action is surrounded by much mystery. They positively refuse to give out any further information.

Burial at Sunset.

Just as the sun set this evening the body of the late Robert Remington was lowered into the grave in the family plot at the beautiful Wildwood cemetery, where his parents are buried. It had been the original intention to conduct the services at 5 o'clock, but owing to the holding of an autopsy the time was deferred until 7 o'clock. The funeral was conducted from the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Reading, an aunt.

The Rev. James W. Diggles, assistant rector of Christ Episcopal church, officiated. Only the relatives and a few intimate acquaintances of the sorrowing friends were in attendance. There was a profusion of flowers from friends in Pittsburgh, New York, Philadelphia and Newport. A wreath of American Beauty roses and lilies of the valley was sent by Miss May Van Alen.

The pallbearers were boyhood friends of the deceased in the persons of Mayor John Laedlein, ex-Assemblyman Emerson Collins, Councilman John G. Coryell, William Emery, John T. Fredericks and John K. Hawes. The cortege reached the cemetery at 6:30 o'clock. Despite the announcement that the interment would be private thousands of persons congregated in the cemetery in the afternoon to witness the last sad rites. Toward supper time many became wearied at the delay and went home.

Consults With Attorneys.

CONGREGATION LEFT PURSE FOR PASTOR

That congregations delight in giving their faithful pastors evidence of their devotion is well known, but not every congregation tries to conceal its token of esteem after the manner of the congregation of the Riverdale Presbyterian church at Shousetown. The Rev. George P. Atwell is in charge there, and is reputed to be one of the most devoted ministers in the Pittsburgh presbytery. Since last Sunday he has been conducting tent meetings in Friendship park, and various other parts of the city. He had occasion to go to his home Wednesday night, and when he opened his door yesterday morning he found a purse lying in the vestibule, so filled with greenbacks that the donors apparently had difficulty in tying the strings. There was a note near it, in which Mr. Atwell was advised to take a good long rest and think of the donors. Mr. and Mrs. Atwell will leave Saturday morning for a vacation of several weeks. They will stay in Atlantic City a few days, and then go farther east.

MILLER, KNOWN AS "SHOE BOX," IS IN TROUBLE

Accused of Swindling English Steel Manufacturers.

DETECTIVE O'MARA TO IDENTIFY HIM

"Shoe Box" Miller is in trouble again. Word has been received from Birmingham, Eng., that he is to be arraigned before the king's court on a charge of swindling Harrison & Co., steel manufacturers of that place. Detective Roger O'Mara will go to England at the end of the month and identify him as the man who made his escape from the Western penitentiary in a shoe box many years ago. Detective O'Mara has been detailed by the Harrison company to establish his record while he was in the United States.

"Shoe Box" is also known as James Ryan and was born in Cleveland, O. In 1885 he was convicted on a charge of burglary and sentenced to seven years in the Western penitentiary. With several others he went to Catfish, Clarion county, and robbed Charles Conners and his wife of $21,000.

Gave Up the Money.

Conners had coal mines and was known to keep large sums of money in the house to pay the miners. Miller and his companions, dragging the old couple from their beds, attempted to force them to reveal the place where they kept their money. Conners refused to tell. While his companions held him Miller took Mrs. Conners and held her feet over burning coals in the stove. This was too much for her husband and he told where the money was.

The news of the crime spread rapidly. O'Mara was then employed as a detective by the city and he went to Catfish and talked to Conners and his wife. About three months later he arrested James Ryan, alias G. W. Miller, in the Red Lion hotel in Sixth street. He was taken to Clarion, tried and convicted. He was sent to the penitentiary, and after serving four years made his escape in the most sensational manner.

He was working in the shoe department. Large consignments of shoes were frequently sent from the institution. By a well-planned plot, Miller was nailed up in a shoe box and was carried out of the penitentiary. The box was placed in a wagon which was driven by a colored man, who is still in this city. Miller was taken to a saloon in Sixth avenue and was liberated.

Captured in Canada.

He immediately went to Toronto, Canada. Warden E. S. Wright was greatly annoyed by his escape and retained Detective O'Mara to work on the case. O'Mara learned through Sadie Manning that he was in Canada. O'Mara sent word to the authorities to watch the post-office there for him and arrest him on sight. He was taken into custody and after a long legal fight was brought back to Pittsburgh, where he served out his term.

Upon being released from the penitentiary he went to Washington, D. C., where he became interested in a patent appliance to convey hot metal. It was taken up by manufacturers and he made considerable money out of it. Later he went to London, and during the World's fair at Paris, was seen by former City Detective John P. McTighe.

His patent conveyance was used by man of the large steel mills in England. Miller is 45 years old.

JOHN FRITZ DINED.

Pioneer Ironmaster of America Is Honored by Friends—Announcement of Medal Fund Coming.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Eighty years old, but ruddy and erect, John Fritz of Bethlehem, Pa., the pioneer ironmaster of America, was the guest of honor at a birthday dinner given tonight by about 20 of his friends at the Engineers' club. Among those present were John C. Kafe, president of the Engineers' club; Col. H. G. Prout, first vice president; John Thompson, Stephen W. Baldwin, Col. Heft and Charles Kirchoff.

The dinner was preliminary to a dinner to be held in Mr. Fritz's honor on October 31 at the Waldorf. Announcement will be made on that occasion of the foundation of the John Fritz gold medal fund.

A medal will be awarded every year to any person, regardless of race or sex, who shall be deemed worthy of honor for achievements in applied science or industry. The fund for the purpose has reached $5,

PITTSBURGH GIRL PROVES HEROINE AND SAVES CHILD

Hangs to Sleepers of Bridge While Train Dashes Along Above Her Head.

BOTH ESCAPE UNINJURED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Clinging with one arm around the ties of a railroad bridge and the other supporting a 3-year-old child, Miss Anna Heath of Pittsburgh hung while a passenger train rolled over her head.

Miss Heath is visiting in this section, and while out for a walk noticed the 3-year-old daughter of William Summer creeping over the ties of the railroad bridge, a short distance away. It was nearly time for the passenger train, and realizing the little one's danger she scrambled up the rocks to the bridge.

She reached the child, which had gained the middle of the long structure, just as te train whistled. It was a long way across the bridge. It was a narrow, single-track structure, and for a moment she grew dizzy. Then she crawled through the ties with the child, and bracing her feet against the iron framework waited for the shock.

There was a roar as of an approaching cyclone, then her scalp seemed to be drawn by suction from her head and she felt as though her brain was being torn out as the train whirled over her, but with the grip of desperation she clung to her charge.

She is unable to tell how she struggled back to the track and reached the ground, but she did so with the little one unscratched, but when next she glanced in the glass it was to find several silver hairs among the tresses that a few hours before had been a mass of rich brown, and she says her fright was the cause.

BESSIE BONEHILL DEAD.

Popular Vaudeville Actress and Light Opera Singer Passes Away at Home in England.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Bessie Bonehill, the vaudeville actress, died today at Patsea, England. In 1889 at Koser & Bials, she danced and sang herself into popular fame. She became a footlight favorite in New York.

Miss Bonehill was born in this country, but at an early age went to London, where she made a sensation by wearing male costume and singing English coster songs.

Later she appeared in America in "Little Christopher," scoring another success. For many years she continued on the stage, both in light opera and in vaudeville, and always held her position as a popular favorite. She went back to England in 1901, leaving her two daughters and son at her home, in Sayville, Long Island.

In private life Bessie Bonehill was Mrs. Wm. Seeley. Word of her illness reached here last June, and shortly after her son and daughters were summoned to her bedside in England. With them went Miss Lillian Rogers, fiancee of her son, John Seeley, and the marriage occurred by the sick bed of the popular actress two weeks ago.

EDWARD PYM REMINGTON, of Pittsburgh, Who Believes That His Brother, R. R. Remington, May Have Been Murdered.

A GUARDIAN IS NAMED FOR MILLIONAIRE'S SON

John Hoge Is Appointed by the Court at Zanesville, O., to Take Charge of Property of W. D. Schultz, Who Is in Sanitarium.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Zanesville, O., Aug. 21.—The first step in what promises to result in a vigorous and long drawn out contest for the bulk of the vast estate left by the late Robert D. Schultz, the millionaire soap manufacturer, was taken into probate court this morning when Mrs. Ethel G. Schultz, wife of W. D. Schultz, the second son of the millionaire, to appoint a guardian for her husband, who is an inmate of a New York sanitarium. The court today appointed John Hoge, former partner of Robert D. Schultz, as guardian.

Upon the death of R. D. Schultz, by his will it was discovered that he had practically decreed his entire estate to his younger son, William D., cutting off his other son, Bernard, with a portion sufficient to provide him an income of a few thousand dollars a year.

All the remainder of the estate, appraised at a million and a quarter, was bequeathed to the son, William. The portion allowed the other son was left in the hands of two trustees, W. D. Schultz and John Hoge.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Schultz were married in the fall of 1900 and have set the pace with the elaborateness of their entertainments and their handsome style of living. The violent combination of business enterprises and reckless abandonment to pleasures lasted little more than a year, when William Schultz's health failed.

Judge M. M. Granger, father of Mrs. Schultz, appeared in court and filed an application for the appointment of his son, Attorney S. M. Granger, as guardian of W. D. Schultz, and as a counter move, Bernard, the brother, filed an application for the appointment of himself as guardian. The appointment of Hoge is a victory for the Schultz interests.

SCHWAB IS LEAVING DULL CARE BEHIND AS HE SAILS AWAY

Declares He Will Not Resign, but Is Going to Have His Vacation.

NO PLANS BUT PLEASURE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, sailed for Europe on the steamship Lorraine this morning. Before sailing Mr. Schwab denied that he intended resigning from the presidency of the steel corporation. He insisted that his trip abroad was to be a vacation and that he was not going for business reasons.

Mr. Schwab arrived on the French line pier shortly after 9 o'clock, and at once went to his cabin on the promenade deck. He looked to be in good health, but leaned heavily on a stout cane. Mr. Schwab did not refuse to talk or answer questions put to him, but professed not to know what his plans would be.

"My arrangements for my trip," he said, "were made so hurriedly that, until I arrive abroad, I don't know where I shall go or what I shall do. You can say, however, that I have not resigned, and also that I am not in feeble health. It was not until last night that I made up my mind to sail on this steamship. The reason for my hurried departure is not ill health, but because I want and need a vacation like everyone else. I must go away now if I want to go at all, because if I should wait much longer cold weather would be here and it would be too late. I can only repeat that business will not enter into my trip abroad at all."

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—The newspapers comment characteristically on the reports of the alleged retirement of Charles M. Schwab from the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation. The Fremdenblatt pictures him as flying away from the land which made him great while it broke him down, and describes J. P. Morgan as the "lone guardian of the avalanche of capital."

The Neues Wiener Journal heads its article "Cracks in the Babylonish Tower," and declares there is a close analogy between the fate of its builders and the trouble which it apprehends is now threatening the builders of the giant trusts.

The Neues Wiener Journal is "surprised at the steadiness of the American markets under the circumstances."

THOMAS NEVINS DEAD.

Was in Great Britain Consolidating Tram Lines.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Thomas Nevins of East Orange, N. J., died suddenly at his residence, Mount Shannon, Castle Connell, County Limerick, Ireland, today. Mr. Nevins was a man of wealth and a large shareholder in many electric traction companies in the United States. He was also connected with railroad and gas enterprises in New Jersey.

Mr. Nevins had engaged to consolidate the tram lines lying between Liverpool and Manchester and convert them into trolley roads under the name of the South Lancashire Electric Traction Company.

OLD SOLDIERS RALLY AGAIN IN INDIANA

Three Hundred Veterans of '61 Celebrate in the Old Way.

WHOLE COUNTY GREETS HEROES

Judge White Leads Attacking Forces in a Sham Battle.

CITIZENS ENJOY THE ANNUAL PICNIC

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

Indiana, Pa., Aug. 21.—"Old Soldiers' Day," the event of perennial interest in Indiana's calendar, was observed today with all the traditional festivities sacred to the people of this patriotic county. Three hundred heroes of '61, with two companies of the Fifth regiment of the National guard of Pennsylvania and over 6,000 citizens of Indiana and its environs, joined in the big celebration.

Old Soldiers' Day means more to the people of Indiana than a mere reunion of the veterans of the civil war. For 17 years it has been recognized as a midsummer holiday—a harvest home gathering, when patriotic fervor adds to the picturesque features of the social outing. All the best element of the other holidays are crystalized in this one event, the joy of Thanksgiving, the good will of Christmas and the pyrotechnic spirit of the Fourth of July being shown by all who participate in the big jubilee. St. Valentine's Day might be given a place also, for the beauty and chivalry of the old county is mustered in full force.

The "old soldiers" appeared today in their best regimentals and marched to the music of the fife and drum with the proud step that distinguished them 40 years ago, the belles of Indiana appeared in their prettiest gowns and the finest horses and best rigs from the countryside were on exhibition, and as a fitting climax a dinner was served in the open air by the matrons of Indiana, who are famous through the state for the excellence of their cooking.

Town Was Early Astir.

The booming of cannon at dawn announced the approaching celebration, and as the echoes resounded among the distant hills the town was astir to greet the veterans and visitors who were thronging in from every side. The people of Indiana are devout disciples of Ben Franklin's creed in the matter of early rising, and although the formal exercises were not scheduled to take place until noon, the morning hours could be well devoted to meeting old friends and the little city soon was crowded. Special trains brought hundreds from all parts of Western Pennsylvania.

Up from Smicksburg at break of day came the famous country cornet band that for a score of years has thrilled Indiana with its martial airs. The musicians were greeted with cheers when the strains of "Yankee Doodle" were heard far over a hill, and in due course of time the Greene Township band paraded up the main thoroughfare. A little later the Plumville band came in for its share of the plaudits and the musical festival began.

Judge Harry White laid aside his judicial duties for the day, and mounted upon a famous charger, answered the salutes to the chief marshal. In '65 he was mustered out of Uncle Sam's volunteer service as brigadier general, and on Old Soldiers' Day everybody addresses the judge as "Gen. White."

Gen. White in Command.

While the bands played and the belles and beaux engaged in the promenade along Philadelphia street, Gen. White was busy forming his columns of blue. They were all boys again—boys from the Sixty-first, the Sixty-seventh, the One Hundred and Thirty-fifth and the Two Hundredth and Sixth Pennsylvania volunteer regiments, together with representatives from the Fifty-fifth, the Seventy-eighth, the Fourteenth cavalry, the Eleventh reserves and half a score of other gallant organizations that were recruited from the brave sons of old Indiana.

When the bell on the court house clock struck 11, the column moved to the fair grounds. Gen. White, president of the old soldiers' organization, delivered an address of welcome, extending to all visiting comrades the freedom of Indiana. The Rev. A. J. Furman, pastor of the Indiana Baptist congregation, responded in a happy vein, and the veterans marched back to the town, where the visitors were entertained at a good old-fashioned dinner by the members of the local G. A. R. post.

In the afternoon the crowd hastened to the fair grounds. Capt. David M. Caldwell, with a squad of soldiers from the Fifth, hauled an old brass cannon up on the hillside and with the branches of trees soon made a masked battery. The main body of troops formed west of the race track, half a mile away, and prepared to attack Ft. Caldwell with all the spirit of real warfare. Fifty rounds of blank cartridges had been issued to the 200 soldiers and soon the rifles of the skirmishers were heard. Gen. White commanded the attacking party, with Lieut. D. J. Hill commanding Company F, and Capt. Cread of Blairsville, in charge of Company D.

Just Like the Old Days.

Ft. Caldwell replied vigorously to the volleys from the assaulting column, but the besiegers advanced without a halt. The plain soon was covered with marching men and a great cloud of smoke wreathed above the skirmishers. The masked battery in Ft. Caldwell roared and gaps were mowed down in the ranks of the vanguard in the assault. Dr. W. A. Simpson and his ambulance corps hastened on the field and planted the red cross flag along the line of "wounded" and stretchers were at hand and the "sufferers" were promptly hauled to the judge's stand in the race track, which served well as a hospital.

Gen. White ordered a charge and with hoarse shouts the breastworks of the fort were carried at the point of the bayonet. Capt. Caldwell and his comrades were taken prisoners and with much

MACHINE WILL LEND ASSISTANCE TO PATTISON END

Preparing to Trade With Democrats to Save County Ticket.

MAY BE NECESSARY TO FORM NEW PARTY

In the fight this fall the Republican column on the ballot is to be practically abandoned. There is evidence that a deal has been made, or soon will be, whereby the machine is to vote the Democratic state ticket in return for support for its county candidates. If the Union column cannot be utilized the Home Rule party will be organized for the purpose of offsetting the Citizens indorsement of Pennypacker.

Machine leaders have been at work on the details of their plan for some time. They claim to have the promise of assistance from Col. James M. Guffey. The colonel says that they have not. Developments will determine which side is being fooled. Immediately after the return of all of the candidates on the machine ticket from their summer vacations, a meeting will be held. The full plan of this Indian warfare will be outlined. The machine bosses say that their hope of winning lies in an alliance of this kind. They are telling a story that Thomas S. Bigelow and Col. J. M. Guffey have quarreled and that the latter will do all he can to turn votes away from the Citizens. Both men deny that friendly relations have been severed.

Machine Expects Aid From Brennen.

William J. Brennen is being counted upon by the machine to play treacherously with the Citizens. Leaders of the old organization have put out the story, as a companion piece to the Guffey-Bigelow quarrel, that Brennen has promised the Democrats would nominate four Democrats for congress, declining to indorse the Citizen congressional ticket. Brennen has authority in this matter, as he presided at the Democratic county convention.

A resolution was introduced there by Charles A. Fagan providing that the filling of the congressional ticket should be left to a committee of three. This plan was adopted. Brennen has not made his appointments, but has promised to do so when he returns from Mt. Clemens Monday. It is believed that Fagan will be chairman of that committee. Fagan is disposed to indorse the Citizen congressional ticket, as he is interested in the success of the fusion cause, and probably realizes that the Democrats have no hope of electing congressmen.

Brennen has never been in favor of a separate Democratic congressional ticket. In fact, there were not more than a couple of members of the Democratic conference committee of 10 who thought that the Democrats should name their own candidates. The Citizens have every reason to believe that Brennen has not changed his mind. They have confidence that he will keep his word, as he has done in all the negotiations to the present time.

DEVLIN'S EYESIGHT WENT BACK ON HIM.

But for the arrest of James G. Watson on a charge of trying to dispose of a diamond ring, the truth might never have leaked out that the Pittsburgh bureau of police has a diamond expert. When Magistrate McCarey called the case yesterday morning, Policeman Tallman Hughes said Watson was arrested for trying to sell a ring for $2 which he was certain was worth $50. Policeman William Devlin, who is the jewel expert of the bureau, was called into consultation, and after digging up a magnifying glass from his pocket and making a careful examination of the stone, pronounced it worth at least $50. Watson then made the startling statement that he had bought the ring for $1.50 in Smithfield street, which it was later learned was true. Devlin ought not to make a mistake, for he sells watches and other jewelry to brother officers.

mock ceremony were marched down the ranks of the victors with trailed arms, where they were released on parole.

"It was just like our charges in the Wilderness and Spottsylvania fights," said County Commissioner T. H. Stephens who won fame and medals in the civil war as a sharpshooter.

After the battle lunch baskets were opened and the remainder of the day was devoted to a picnic in the grove near the fair grounds. At the campfire in the evening the veterans whiled away the hours in reminiscences of the wartime. In 1861 the population of Indiana county was less than 25,000, and from this number it furnished the union with over 7,000 gallant defenders.

wait toward daylight. Although Mr. Remington secured only a few hours' sleep he was astir early and put in the time until just before the funeral with several surgeons and his attorney. After breakfast he engaged a cab and kept it on the go until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

He first called on his attorney and held the second long conference with him, after which it was decided to call in Dr. G. D. Nutt and Dr. H. G. McCormick. With these gentlemen present the death of Robert R. Remington was discussed and it was decided to make a thorough examination of the body. After a half-hour conference the physicians and Mr. Remington proceeded to Page's undertaking establishment. The casket was opened and the body viewed by the physicians.

After another conference with the doctors the party returned to the undertaking establishment to hold an autopsy.

It was shortly after 11 o'clock a. m. when the post-mortem was commenced, and it was about 1:30 p. m. when the physicians completed their work and replaced the body in the casket. Drs. Nutt and Weddigen carried packages away from the undertaker's parlor when they entered the cab and hurried away.

The physicians refuse positively to discuss the significance of the autopsy or the result. Dr. Nutt replied to all questions in this wise:

"I am sorry, but you will have to excuse me this time. I am obeying legal advice, and that is to keep my mouth closed."

Attorney McCormick said he refused to make any comment.

"I don't know if an autopsy was held. I did not see it performed."

The general belief is that Edward Remington is gathering evidence to prove that his brother was not insane and that sections of his brain was removed and will be examined by eminent alienists to ascertain if the mind of the unfortunate man was affected.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—(Special.) "It is impossible that Robert Remington was murdered," said Chief of Police Richards tonight, when told that an autopsy had been made upon the body of Remington with the possible view of determining the matter. Unless Mr. Edward Remington has already stated it to be his opinion that his brother died as the result of foul play, Chief Richards cannot believe that he thinks so.

Upon his arrival here Tuesday evening, Mr. Remington, after viewing the body visited the library of the Newport reading room, the very small apartment in which the shots were fired and where Robert Remington died. He made a very careful inquiry into every detail of the tragedy, going also to see Dr. Henry Ecroyd, the medical examiner who had charge of the case as the state's official.

Chief Richards was with him all the evening, and he understood when Mr. Remington left Newport that he was satisfied there had been no foul play.

He said that while the body was lying here awaiting the arrival of the brother, he examined the revolver with which the shooting was done. He found that it was an old French revolver and that it had not been bought in this city.

A Riot in Soho.

A small riot occurred at Second avenue and Brady street about 11 o'clock last night. Officer Patrick Rogan was badly used up while attempting to quell the disturbance. A crowd of colored men engaged in a scuffle and several were knocked down. The officer interfered and they assaulted him.

Employes of the Pennsylvania Tube Works telephoned to No. 4 police station. Inspector Robert Denniston and six officers hurried to the scene. The negroes saw the patrol wagon approaching and fled. No arrests were made.

WHITE SQUADRON IS SIGHTED NEAR ISLE OF SHOALS

STORM COMES TO ITS AID

Admiral Higginson Shifts His Position Off Rockport to Deceive His Enemy—Rocket Signals Arranged for at Straitsmouth Point.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Isle of Shoals, N. H., Aug. 21.—What is thought to be the white squadron under Commander Pillsbury was discovered off the southeast of the Isle of Shoals just before dark this evening, and the naval officers about the island are confident that it is the white fleet lying back to make a dash for Portsmouth harbor late tonight.

This afternoon the weather was very thick outside, and even the battleships off the island could not be made out. Shortly after 4 o'clock the mist lifted and a large ship was discovered off about five miles southeast of here, and as soon as she was discovered she steamed away to the south. Two of the torpedo boats gave chase, but the ship lost itself in the mist and the torpedo boats returned and signaled the ships along the line.

The signal station established at Appledore island was especially vigilant tonight and while the heavy mist prevailed a Jackie was kept aloft on the signal staff erected on the island at the time of the Spanish war. It was he who discovered the ships off the southeast just before night fell.

Quick Runs Into Harbor.

The torpedo boat destroyer Decatur has made two or three runs into Portsmouth harbor during the day, at no time dropping anchor, but just making a sweep of the harbor and then off to sea again.

ROCKPORT, MASS., Aug. 21.—Not for a moment during the day did the battleships give up their watch on the coast. Soon after the noon hour a heavy storm came on, the sky being decidedly black. In the driving rain the impression entertained by the sailors was the probability that Commander Pillsbury would strike his blow on such a night as this promised to be.

But the adverse weather made the stations of the defending squadron along the Atlantic coast line all the more active and alert. Messages came in from various points from Portland to Provincetown with remarkable quickness.

In an hour the rain had passed, but the thick weather remained and as dusk came on a mist crept over the surface of the water. It was a dark night.

Only Change of Station.

The darkness was just coming on when Admiral Higginson gave the order to his battleships to weigh anchor. So hurriedly had messages been given and so many trips did the dispatch launches make between the shore and the Kearsarge that it was thought the move this time was out to sea. The admiral, however, allowed the squadron to pass back a little to the south; in fact nearer in shore and within hailing distance of Thatchers island.

This change of anchorage was brought about for two reasons. The admiral wished to keep his ships in varying locations and to puzzle the spies of the white squadron, whom it was firmly believed were strung along the coast. Again the admiral wished to get in touch with the Straitsmouth point life saving station, where was established tonight an elaborate system of rocket signaling.

As the night wore on the sky lost little of its blackness and a constant stream of messages from the north to the south showed clearly enough that the defending squadron feared the approach of Commander Pillsbury.

WOMAN SHOT AT THIEVES.

Mrs. William A. Showalter, of Latrobe, Drove Burglars From Her Home.

LATROBE, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The home of William A. Showalter, on East Depot street, was entered by robbers last night and some jewelry was carried away. Mr. Showalter is in California. Two men entered the house through a pantry window. Mrs. Showalter awakened by hearing steps on the stairs. She lay quietly watching the men as they began a search for valuables.

As soon as their backs were turned Mrs. Showalter sprang from bed, seized a revolver and ran after them. As they walked down the stairs she fired every shot in the revolver after them. The men fell down stairs over each other and ran out of the house. They did not go into the dining room for the treasures they had collected.

ITALIAN ON THE SHOOT.

Fired Six Times at a Patrolman But Missed His Aim—Beaten Into Insensibility.

An Italian, shortly after 1:30 this morning, when run to bay after an exciting chase by Officer C. R. Thompson, fired six shots from a revolver at the officer, but missed his mark. He was beaten into insensibility by the patrolman's mace.

Policeman Talman Hughes had been called to a house in Wylie avenue, near Washington street, where two Italians, one with a knife and the other with a revolver, were terrorizing the inmates. Officer Hughes placed the man with the revolver under arrest, but the man passed his revolver to the other Italian, who ran from the house. He fled down Wylie avenue with the officer in pursuit, and blowing his police whistle.

Officer Thompson heard the whistle and chased the Italian into Commission alley. When about overtaken the Italian turned and fired rapidly at the officer. The Italian was carried to the Central station unconscious, and then sent to the Homeopathic hospital.

ARMY AND NAVY UNITED.

Daughter of Capt. McCalla Marries Son of Gen. MacArthur.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Miss Mary Handy McCalla, daughter of Capt. Bowman H. McCalla, U. S. N., was married to Lieut. Arthur MacArthur, Jr., U. S. N., son of Gen. Arthur MacArthur, today at noon at All Saints' chapel. The Rev. Henry Morgan Stone, rector of the church, officiated.

The army and navy officers present were in full uniform. The bride entered the church with her father. She wore a simple gown of white satin, ruffled with chiffon. The bertha was of point lace, the skirt and train being bordered with orange blossoms. The veil of tulle was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, lilies of the valley and jasmine.

Doctor Kills Himself.

BRIDGEPORT, O., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Dr. E. N. Biggs, one of the best-known medical practitioners in Belmont county, committed suicide tonight by shooting himself through the temple with a revolver. No cause for the deed is known.

AWFUL STATE OF AFFAIRS ALLEGED

FEARFUL REPORTS ABOUT THE MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL.

Strong Protest Made to Anti-Vaccination Society Anent the Lack of Proper Accommodations, Food and Treatment. Modesty Is Not Known There.

At a meeting of the Anti-Vaccination society last night, the method of operating the Municipal hospital was severely denounced. The leader of the discussion, and a firm believer in vaccination, was the Rev. H. S. Lancaster, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, South Side. He called upon the members of the society to assist in remedying alleged evils that exist at the pest house, basing his remarks upon a personal observation.

He told of a child of his parish who was found to be suffering from smallpox, who was compelled to go to the pest house. An aunt, Mrs. Thomas Anderson, of No. 59 South Thirty-first street, courageously went with her. The child had a comfortable home. Dr. Lancaster said: "The place where she was taken was awful: I hope it will never come to any of us. It is a number of shanties, and is much worse than a railroader's shack. There are no toilet conveniences. The pest house, I believe, has a capacity of 40 patients and I understand there are 113 patients there now. Would you believe it, they are lying on the floor like sardines in a box, and to get in one has almost to step over them. There are no accommodations for washing and the patients are compelled to use a hydrant in the yard. If the city compels persons to go to the pest house, it is certainly the duty of the city to have a decent place."

Referring to the case of the child mentioned, Dr. Lancaster continued: "The little one died on Monday, and I understand no physician had attended her since the previous Saturday. The staff, I am sure, is doing all it can with the limited means afforded, and I don't blame the physicians. I believe in vaccination and intend to be vaccinated again, should it be necessary; but it is the duty of everyone to protest against this method of caring for the sick."

Dr. Z. T. Miller, president of the society, said he had conversed with Mrs. Anderson, and read some of the charges made by her. He said Mrs. Anderson declared that the food served to patients is bad, that the meat is served in such a manner that sick persons cannot eat it, and that "there is no shame in the pest house."

Mrs. Anderson was quoted as having said that some of the women in a ward have ulcers on them, and that the patients are compelled to do their own washing, one basin answering for all, feet and bodies being washed in the same utensils. It was also charged the linen is changed but twice a week.

The question of authority to compel the patients to enter the pest house was then discussed, Attorney H. L. Grote giving it as his opinion that such action is not compulsory. While this was being talked Dr. Lancaster remarked, "I venture to say that it is doubtful if any person can get better treatment there than they can in a dog kennel."

HANDCUFFED A GIRL.

Brutal Action of Officer from the Monongahela Valley Who Came After Della McKenna.

Clyde H. Hawkins of Ellsworth and Della McKenna of Donora, who came to this city to be married, were arrested Wednesday night on the information of the girl's father and were taken back to their homes yesterday by Constable J. J. Somerville on an information made before a justice at Donora. The constable said that the young man would be held for enticing a girl under age from her home, and that she was to be sent to a reformatory school.

The constable greatly incensed the jailkeepers and officers from the Public Safety building by handcuffing the girl. She is only 15 years old, and presented a pitiful sight with manacles on her wrists.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny Both Show Growth Which Is Recognized by the Postoffice Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Orders have been issued by Acting Postmaster General Shallenberger for the establishment on September 15 of station No. 28 of the Allegheny postoffice at the corner of Bouquet street and Allegheny avenue.

The establishment on October 1 of the Hazelwood station of the Pittsburgh office is also ordered. A free delivery route has been established from Darlington, Beaver county, Pa. The postoffices at Isle, Plano, Ogle and Trail in Butler county will be discontinued August 30.

WILL ENTER A DAMAGE SUIT.

Action Against Police Officials to Be Started Tomorrow.

A damage suit is to be entered tomorrow morning against Superintendent of Police John McAleese and Detectives George Waggoner and A. H. Swinehart by the law firm of Kerin & Lippert, charging the above-named officers with the false imprisonment of Bert Feightley, the ice man who was held on suspicion of having killed Achsah King. The ice men held a meeting last night at their quarters in Seventh avenue and they heartily favored the move. The association is to provide the funds for prosecuting the case.

Feightley claims the front office men are still hounding him. He says an unknown woman has been shadowing him since he was released, and has made several attempts to speak to him. The woman wears a heavy veil which hides her identity.

GIVES $15,000 LUNCHEON.

Shah of Persia Shows Englishmen How to Spend Money.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The shah paid a lengthy visit to the Maxim works this morning. He showed a keen interest in the latest inventions in artillery and electrical appliances. On the invitation of Sir Hiram Maxim the Persian monarch got astride the seat of a Maxim gun and fired three belts of blank cartridges. His majesty was considerably shaken by the recoil at his first attempt, but he stuck to his post and finished up like an experienced gunner.

The shah and his suite posed for moving pictures before leaving. He subsequently proceeded to the Persian legation, where he gave a state luncheon, which cost $15,600, so sumptuous were the decorations and arrangements.

DROWNED IN THE CHEAT.

Sad Fate of Popular Young Man—Met Death While on Vacation.

Charles Harper, a machinist living at No. 144 Eureka street, Thirty-first ward, received word yesterday that his son, Charles Harper, Jr., aged 19, had been drowned in the Cheat river, where the young man was spending his vacation, camping and fishing, in company with two other young men. None of the details of the sad affair was learned.

Young Harper was employed as bookkeeper by the Valley Supply Company, and was highly esteemed, not only by his employers, but by a large circle of friends.

nominee for lieutenant governor, holds a club which the machine is not aware is in his possession. Guthrie was not disposed to accept the Democratic nomination for second place on the state ticket. He wanted first place and when he was shelved in this ambition, the offer of the lieutenant governorship tended to irritate rather than to heal. His only reason for accepting was that his being on the ticket would help the fusion candidates.

On the best of authority it is stated that Guthrie would not consent to accept the nomination until Col. Guffey and others had agreed—it is said in writing—to indorse the Citizens candidates for congressmen. Brennen will not appoint a committee opposed to the indorsement of the Citizens congressional ticket, unless that action has the approbation of Col. Guffey. If Col. Guffey acquiesces in this deal with the machine he breaks the bargain with Guthrie. In that event the Democrats might find themselves put to the unpleasant necessity of changing horses in the middle of the campaign. The loss of Guthrie would be a serious blow to the Democrats this fall. They consider him the strong man on the ticket, far outshining Pattison. Guthrie is not a dealer. His interest is in the fusion ticket and his friends say that when his candidacy becomes a hindrance to the success of the local movement he will cease to be a candidate.

The machine is ready to help Pattison. It will depend upon Col. Guffey to reciprocate. The old organization leaders, who have brains, do not attempt to disguise the fact that they are in a tight place. They admit that there is a wave of public sentiment in favor of clearing out the court house, and they fear that wave is assuming tidal proportions. Something has to be done to check the force of the blow certain to fall in November. They believe that their only hope lies in an alliance with the Democrats. They have said to Col. Guffey, "You help our county ticket and we will promise to give Pattison a majority in this county."

One man, who holds a front seat in the councils of the machine, is authority for the statement that Guffey has not yet gone into the dicker, but the organization is confident that he will.

The machine men say that Guffey and Bigelow have quarreled. They claim that the colonel became displeased when the Citizens indorsed Pennypacker, holding that Pattison should have been put on the ticket, according to previous understanding. This story has been industriously circulated in the hope that it would stimulate weakening machine hearts. There might have been a time when there was some understanding about the indorsement of Guthrie, were he nominated for governor by the Democrats, but it is said that the Pattison story is untrue.

Waiting for the Unionists.

The machine is waiting to see what the Union party will do at its state convention. If Pattison is indorsed then the local organization hopes to have its ticket put in the same column. Should Pennypacker be named by the Union party, the machine will have to make other arrangements. The Home Rule party will be formed and Pattison and the county ticket placed in the column. The local candidates will also be on the ballot by nomination papers. The plan is to practically abandon the Republican column.

If Guffey can be drawn into the deal he will be expected to keep the Democrats away from their column, urging them to vote the Union or Home Rule ticket. In attempting to carry out the terms of this contract a means would be afforded of finding the actual strength of the colonel in the local Democracy. There are five Democrats on the fusion ticket. It is not believed that any of them could be induced to withdraw. They have a good chance of success, and it is not expected that their desire to assist in an attempt to elect a Democratic governor would outweigh their desire to be elected to lucrative county jobs. They have large followings. Just how their constituency is to be pulled away from them and thrown to the old organization is not clearly outlined in the machine prospectus of its Indian warfare.

Must Strike a Blow.

The machine promises a political sensation. It was to have been uncorked Wednesday. At that time there was a postponement for two days, and now it is said that the tapping will not occur until Monday. The nature of the blow to be struck the Citizens is a secret and is being held in bond. One rumor yesterday described the sensation as a declaration on the part of H. C. Frick in favor of the election of James F. Burke to congress in the Thirty-first district. Mr. Frick lives in the Thirty-second district.

Another scheme the machine has in contemplation is the making of a "wide open" town in all that the name implies. This proposition has had the most serious consideration from the machine counselors. Recorder Brown bars the way to its becoming a reality. Whether he will continue to hold out against an almost unanimous machine leadership has not been fully determined.

The plan is to close the speakeasies and the numerous low dives. Then after making this pretense at a moral cleaning of the city regulated gambling is to be allowed. Every game of chance would be permitted. The management of the gaming would be left to one individual who would be responsible. It would be his duty to see that "crooked" games were not allowed, and that every man who wanted to risk his money on the horses, faro, poker or anything else would be given a fair chance to make good.

The machine men thought that this "opening" would help to make votes.

BLOODHOUNDS TO ENTER MINE

Dogs to Be Used in Search for a Port Royal Victim.

LONG HUNT IS FRUITLESS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Aug. 21.—Bloodhounds will course through the black passages of the Port Royal mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in an effort to find the remains of John Peebles, one of the 18 miners who were killed there in the explosion of June 9, 1901. This weird hunt has been suggested by the mine inspectors who have had the work of exploration in charge since the explosion. Bloodhounds will be brought from Charleroi.

Last week Mine Inspector Callahan of the Ninth bituminous district, Inspector Charles Conner of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Andrew Peebles, brother of the dead man, and Robert Shaw, a brother-in-law of Peebles, made an exhaustive search for the remains of the miner. They decided that his remains will be found somewhere in heading No. 25. This heading is 2,500 feet long, and almost its entire length is covered with a heavy fall of roof coal, slate and stone.

It would take many months of hard labor to remove this heavy covering, so it has been decided to try the dogs. If this trial is unsuccessful the debris will be removed.

COKE OUTPUT INCREASED.

Cars Are More Plentiful, but the Railroads Are Unable to Remove Them.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The Courier will say tomorrow:

Coke production in the Connellsville region was a little better last week than it was the first week in August, and the output in shipments held its own. Cars are plentiful. The operators have no trouble in securing all they want, but after they get them loaded the railroads are unable to move shipments promptly. Last winter and this spring much complaint was made about the failure of the railroads to furnish cars. Now there are plenty of cars and the railroads are unable to take care of the shipments they have on time. There are instances where loaded cars have stood on a siding for a month at a time. On the lines west, out of Pittsburgh, there are several thousand cars waiting their turn to be moved out.

The detailed report of the operation and output of the region for the week ending Saturday, August 16, shows a total of 21,495 ovens, of which 20,661 were active and 834 were idle. No changes were reported in the active and idle lists. The estimated tonnage was 251,346, compared with 241,246 the previous week, a gain of 100 tons.

The shipments from the Connellsville region aggregated 11,911 cars, distributed as follows: To Pittsburgh and river tipples, 3,931 cars; to points west of Pittsburgh, 5,569 cars; to points east of Connellsville, 2,411 cars. Compared with the shipments of the previous week, this was an increase of two cars.

In the lower Connellsville region there were no changes in the active and idle lists, the total number of ovens remaining the same, 3,396, of which 3,248 were making coke and 148 were idle.

Quay Puts on Slippers, Goes Fishing and Takes Drive—Pittsburgher Too Noisy on Beach.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Senator Quay forgot politics for a time today and went fishing. Accompanied by Capt. Ben Sooy he rode in a hack to the Inlet, and there the two boarded a naphtha launch and went to the "wreck," a favorite fishing place about six miles up the coast. The senator and Capt. Sooy were loaded for sheepshead, and captured nine, ranging in weight from 7 to 11 pounds. To this was added a string of smaller fish, and the fishermen returned to shore well satisfied with their morning's work. This afternoon Senator Quay took a carriage ride about town, the first time since the scalding accident. His feet were encased in slippers, as they were while he was fishing, the slipper on the injured foot being split over the instep.

Mule-Driver Language Barred.

A man giving his name as John J. Dumont of Pittsburgh was arraigned in the recorder's court tonight charged with disorderly conduct on the beach. Dumont, according to the testimony, hired a pony cart to take a ride. The language he used in inducing the pony to move speedily not only attracted a large crowd but compelled the life guards to order him from the beach. He returned later and offered the guards $10 to allow him to do as he pleased, and he was again told that he must behave. He again went away, and the next the guards saw of him he had taken the team of a hokey-pokey vender and was galloping up the beach and yelling. He was fined $10, which he promptly paid.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 21.—Chief of Police Horner, assisted by local officers and Chief of Police McDowell of Youngstown, recovered more than $200 worth of stolen goods last night at New Castle Junction, which had been carried away from stores at Lowell and Struthers, O., on the night of August 9.

The officers found the Italians in that locality wearing unusually good raiment and a search was made of their cabins, when quantities of cutlery and other articles stolen from the Lomax and Freedman stores were captured. They had been sold to the Italians by the robbers.

TEN THOUSAND ENJOY PICNIC

Ligonier Valley Reunion Drew Immense Crowd to Idlewild Yesterday.

ATHLETIC SPORTS AND MUSIC

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
LIGONIER, PA., Aug. 21.—The 11th annual reunion of the people of Ligonier valley drew an immense crowd to Idlewild today, all parts of Westmoreland, Somerset, Cambria and Indiana counties being well represented in the gathering of 10,000 persons. The affair afforded the residents of the rural sections an opportunity to renew acquaintanceships.

It was on August 21, 1758, that the advance guard of the expedition of Gen. Forbes crossed the Laurel hill range and formed a fortified camp on the site of the present town of Ligonier, and thus the celebration today also partook of the nature of an anniversary, 144 years having elapsed since the advent of the English-speaking race in this historic valley.

Each year hundreds of persons who formerly lived in the historic valley return to attend the reunion, and today these represented a dozen states and as many of the chief cities of the land. Many persons from Pittsburgh and hundreds from Western Pennsylvania towns were in attendance.

The scene at noon was of particular interest, the thousands being grouped about the grounds much after the style of old-fashioned basket picnics. Later there were athletic sports of various kinds, music, boating and many other features.

BUILT TOWN OF HIS OWN TO GET LIQUOR LICENSE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cumberland, Md., Aug. 21—C. D. Gillespie of Hendricks, Tucker county, W. Va., after vainly trying for six years to secure a license to sell liquor, has at last won by the use of ingenious and expensive methods. He was always turned down when he applied to the authorities of Hendricks, offers of $1,000 a year being no inducement. Thereupon he bought five acres of land across the Cheat river, directly opposite Hendricks, built 12 houses and moved in families large enough to represent 103 sons. All this has occurred since January 9 last.

At the June term of court at Parsons he had his town of 12 houses incorporated under the name of Brooklyn Heights. On July 12 he had a mayor and town councilman elected and applied to the county court for a license to sell liquors in the corporation of Brooklyn Heights, which was granted.

He immediately started to erect a saloon building and in 48 hours the structure was completed and he was distributing beverages gratis. He has now contracted for a cable foot bridge across the Cheat river at an expense of $500 and has also built a village lockup. He is now selling liquor in his own town and under his own mayor and city council.

OFFICIALS PLAN TO ERECT NEW COURT BUILDING

Want to Buy Old University Square for a Site for Structure.

MORE ROOM IS NEEDED

Land Could Be Purchased and the Addition Built Without Increasing the Present Millage — Property Could Be Bought for $500,000.

The present county officials are planning for an addition to the court house to cover the square now occupied by the Third United Presbyterian church, the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, the old University building and several residences. The ground would cost $500,000, and this sum, with the money to erect a building in keeping with the parent structure, would be raised by a bond issue.

The plan is to erect a building in which the courts and all of the offices closely connected with them could be housed. The officials claim that the growth of the county necessitates the enlargement of the present building. Their reason for immediate action is that the undertaking can be accomplished at less expense now than later along. The reason for this statement is based on the increasing land values in the immediate vicinity of the courthouse. It is pointed out that the erection of the big Frick building has made certain that property in that neighborhood will not depreciate. A quiet inquiry on the part of the commissioners has developed that prices are ascending.

Project Informally Discussed.

There was an informal discussion of the project by a number of the county officials yesterday. Unofficially Judge Frazer is said to have expressed the opinion some time ago that a couple of stories should be added to the present building. Architects were consulted about the feasibility of this plan. They gave it as their opinion that this could not be done without working injury to the architectural beauty of the handsomest courthouse in the United States.

The county owns the old University building, and the present commissioners have for a long time thought that it would be wise to at least add the Third United Presbyterian church property to its holdings. A deal for this site was almost closed a couple of years ago. At that time the congregation held the property at $110,000. It is said that now the owners put a value of $200,000 on the site. The church has a frontage of 78 feet in Diamond street. The depth of the lot is 115 feet. The other large piece of property in the square is owned by the Fourth Avenue Baptist church. It has frontages in Ross street and Fourth avenue.

Say Millage Would Not Increase.

The county officials figure that this addition to the courthouse could be built without increasing the millage. The valuation is now in round numbers $600,000,000. On this the taxpayer pays 1½ mills. The three quarters of a mill for roads is included in this total. The commissioners say the entire square could be purchased for $500,000. No estimate is placed on the probable cost of the additional building, but it is figured that a bond issue covering the total expenditure could be paid off in 20 years without the necessity of increasing the millage above the present rate. The total bonded indebtedness of the county is now $3,000,000.

When the present courthouse was built 32 years ago it was thought to be capable of caring for the increased business of the county for the next half-century. Now the officials are all complaining of being overcrowded. They say that by putting the courts and the offices of clerk of courts, prothonotary and register in the new building the space would be sufficient for many years to come.

TRUCKMEN INJURED.

Trunks Upset Upon Them by the Pennsylvania Limited at Union Station.

One man injured, perhaps fatally, and another seriously hurt is the record of a collision between the Pennsylvania limited and two baggage trucks last evening at the Union station. The trucks had been pushed too far off the platform, just as the limited was pulling into the train shed. The injured are:

MAX GOLDBERG, aged 34 years, truckman, residing at No. 1623 Poplar alley; hurt about the back, right shoulder and internally. Taken to the West Penn hospital.

JOSEPH H. FERGUSON, aged 26 years, No. 1102 Bedford avenue; bruised on breast, right arm and leg. Taken to his home.

Both of the men hurt are employed as baggage truckmen. Each was in charge of loaded trucks, which were passing on the station platform when the limited was pulling in. As the train passed, the cylinder of the engine struck the end of one of the trucks, upsetting both that truck and the other and throwing the heavy trunks upon the truckmen. Employes about the station lifted the trunks off and one of the company's surgeons attended the men. The baggage was not much damaged.

FINKLER SHOT HIMSELF.

German Coachman Committed Suicide at Osborne Yesterday Morning.

Because of family troubles, John Finkler, 35 years old, a coachman employed by Sarah E. Haines of Osborne, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head yesterday morning.

He had been working at intervals for Mrs. Haines for several years. She wished him to take a trunk to the station yesterday morning and sent her son, James B. Haines, to call him. Finkler said that he would get ready. He did not appear, however, and John Humert, a gardener employed by a neighbor, was sent to call him a second time. Being unable to get an answer, Humert went upstairs. When the door was forced Finkler was found lying across the bed lifeless.

Finkler was nervous and fretful. He was afraid to remain alone in the stables at night. He was born in Germany and had been in this country 10 years. His remains will be cared for by his employer.

ALL ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR GREAT MASS MEETING.

In Addition to Roasting an Ox, the South Side Water Companies Will Get a Roasting That Will Be Something Out of the Ordinary.

Arrangements have been completed for the mass meeting of the citizens of the South Side, hill tops and Chartiers Valley towns to be held at McKinley park tomorrow. Even the minutest details have been planned. The Chartiers Valley and Monongahela water companies will be roasted to a brown turn along with other roasts.

Preparations have been made to roast an ox and fully 1,500 pounds of well-done, rare and medium roast beef will be served to 5,000 to 10,000 persons. Coffee will be made from pure spring water which flows in the park. At the last meeting of the ways and means committee over 5,000 tickets at 25 cents apiece were reported sold.

M. B. Layton is chairman of the committee on arrangements and he has a list of 12 speakers who will address the crowd on the subject of water.

Director McCandless of the department of public works yesterday received and accepted an invitation to be present, but it is unlikely that he will be one of the speakers. An invitation was also mailed to Recorder Brown, but the city executive has not yet accepted it.

The agitation committee appointed by the citizens to take testimony on the water supply conditions of the district held a lengthy session last night in the office of Alderman Alexander D. Black, No. 81 Washington avenue. Fully 20 citizens testified and stenographic reports will be made of their testimony.

Probably the most important witness before the committee was James W. Gilmore, who resides at No. 147 Jucunda street, Knoxville. Mr. Gilmore said that for 13½ days in July not a drop of water came through his pipes. Many complaints were made about the rates charged. It was claimed they were 20 per cent higher than the city water schedule, which is supposed to be the same as the rates charged in these districts.

As a result of the inadequate and miserable supply of water in the South Side and hill top districts, milk has been sold in greater quantities than ever known before. It is used both to drink and wash in. The distilled water companies of Pittsburgh have been doing a thriving business in these districts and the building of several new breweries on the other side of the river is attributed to the poor water supply.

The official records of the board of health show that there has been more sickness across the river this year than for 25 years before. Complaints are also frequent as to discourteous treatment by H. J. Schneider, a clerk in the Monongahela Water Company office, and also by John F. Grimes of the Chartiers Valley company. When citizens went to make protests they were frequently insulted, so they stated, and even ordered out of the offices.

Ellison's busy season began today. He was buying material for the overhauling of the three boats of his line, which are and will be laid up until there is more water in the river. Packets between Pomeroy and Louisville are in and out on time. Work on the location of the dam of Colloms riffle will be begun on Monday. The preliminary work consists of finding bed rock suitable to support the structure. The work will be done by Capt. George Isenhaur, a contractor of Covington, Ky.

News of the Rivers.

The towboat Defender came as far as Middleport and laid up.

The W. W. O'Neil and Exporter are tied to the bank at Cincinnati.

The towboat Fallis is towing empties between Cincinnati and Middleport.

Capt. T. J. Wood is in Canada enjoying the fishing and will return to Pittsburgh early in September.

The big towboat J. R. Williams left New Orleans Tuesday with a tow of 22 pieces for Pittsburgh.

Capt. Allen Harger, who has been ill for a number of days, is again able to assume command of his boat.

The towboat Alice Brown has probably reached New Orleans and the J. B. Finley also ought to be there.

The steamer Elizabeth yesterday departed for Morgantown with another excellent trip of freight and passengers.

The steamer Greenwood is expected to come as far as Rochester, where she will have to transfer her freight and passengers.

Edward Brown of the transportation department of the coal combination has returned from his vacation at Atlantic City.

Slight rises were reported from Allegheny river points yesterday, but no change of any consequence is expected in the stage of the water at Pittsburgh.

The towboat Pacific cannot be inspected until next week. The local government steamboat inspectors yesterday examined the Dauntless, owned by Capt. Earl Hodgers.

The towboat Juniata, after having been overhauled, is again out doing pool work. She has taken the place of the Braddock while the latter boat is being painted and renovated.

Capt. James G. Reasell, master of the new towboat Peter Sprague, is in Pittsburgh from St. Louis. The new boat will be ready to go to New Orleans within the next two weeks.

Capt. John F. Dravo did not come to Pittsburgh yesterday, remaining at Beaver to attend the funeral of one of his neighbors. The captain is still very active, notwithstanding that he is over 80 years old.

The new cabin for the government boat to take the place of the Shackwater, is about finished. The machinery of the old boat will be placed on the new one. A new hull was built at Marietta and will be brought to Pittsburgh shortly.

Rivermen would be much pleased if the government would hurry the placing of boards on the dams of the Monongahela river. They have been partly placed on No. 1 dam, but No. 2 has not yet been touched. The water in the pools is getting low.

Capt. John M. Phillips said yesterday that in his opinion there was a good opening for packets in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade, provided they use oil for fuel and adopt electric freight conveyers. He said the labor problem in the south was the most bothersome thing to contend with now, but that the introduction of oil would do away with much labor. From all accounts the White Collar line of Cincinnati will have no boats in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade next year, for the reason that they have not got them and do not intend to build them.

PRESIDENT BAER TOO DEMOCRATIC FOR SUCH A TALE

Senators Never Asked Him to End Mine Strike for Party's Sake.

ELKIN IN PHILADELPHIA

By CHESTER D. POTTER,
Staff Correspondent.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 21.—Senator Penrose said today that he had no information as to when President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers would come to Philadelphia; that he had no engagement to meet him, and that so far as he and Senator Quay were concerned the status of the strike remained unchanged.

"I have not seen President Baer, who represents the operators, for more than a year, and I do not believe Senator Quay has met him within the past four years."

This was Senator Penrose's reply when asked as to the correctness of a story sent out from New York last night in which Penrose and Quay were alleged to have had a conference with President Baer, at which time the senators were reported to have informed Mr. Baer that unless the strike was settled at once the next governor of Pennsylvania would be a Democrat. President Baer, the story stated, replied that nothing would give him greater pleasure, personally, than to have a Democrat elected governor of Pennsylvania, he having been a life-long Democrat himself.

The story on its face was most preposterous for the reason that President Baer is, as everyone in Pennsylvania knows, a Democrat, and one who has always taken a large personal interest in the affairs of his party. The effort to make political capital out of the miners' strike will fail, although the literary bureau of the Democratic state organization is giving it a great deal of attention.

Attorney General John P. Elkin and T. Larry Eyre, superintendent of public grounds and buildings, were here today. General Elkin asked a large number of questions concerning recent politicial developments, but refused to be quoted as to his own views beyond the statement that there was no doubt as to the election of Judge Pennypacker and the balance of the Republican state ticket. Mr. Elkin said late in the afternoon that he had been too busy to visit Republican state headquarters, but that he would probably do so before returning to Harrisburg.

The recent loan of $1,600,000 negotiated by John Wanamaker for the purpose, it was stated, of building an immense department store on the site of the present Wanamaker structure, is giving much anxiety to the Democratic leaders, who profess to believe that Mr. Wanamaker is about to re-enter politics. It is by them stated that such a sum of money would be most useful for incidental expenses in a fight for the United States senatorship. Mr. Wanamaker's friends laugh at this talk and declare that the merchant prince has permanently withdrawn from politics. They assert that he would not accept a seat in the United States senate if it were tendered him without opposition. All of which sounds more or less suspicious.

CHAUTAUQUA.

Public Beauty and Good Government Discussed by Clinton R. Woodruff.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia, secretary of the American League of Civic Improvement, addressed the conference today on the subject "Public Beauty and Good City Government." He said in part:

"Public beauty does not mean good city government, nor does good city government mean public beauty, but each is aiding and supplementing the other, and each is reaching its mutual dependence. Our municipalities are coming to recognize that the rights of the community are higher than those of an individual. So we find laws and ordinances regulating the height and location of buildings, still others requiring the widening of the streets, for the removal of refuse of all kinds, for cleaning the streets and forbidding the use of soft coal. The time will come when municipal administrations will urge as a reason for their political support their efforts in behalf of the aesthetic development of the community.

"Our city officials are recognizing more and more that they must subserve the artistic as well as the utilitarian needs of the people. They are coming to see that all the requirements of a building are met unless it is artistic as well as useful. Suppose the same spirit pervaded our municipalities as in ancient Athens, when the statue of Hermes was destroyed. Would Tammany exist for a day, would we tolerate the appointment of a single public official to pay a private or political debt, would it be possible to award a contract to any but the lowest and best bidder? Would franchises worth millions be awarded to private corporations with scant, if any, public consideration? Would public laws be enacted for other than the highest public welfare?"

Mr. Woodruff gave a detailed account of what is being done and what might be done in the schools of the country, and says the influence of the embryo citizens, as he designates the pupils, is immeasurable.

"When the people and their representatives come to regard the public welfare as sacred, we shall have taken a long step forward. We shall have only the best for our cities, and that will be the most beautiful. Public beauty and good city government are matters of adjustment, and the sooner we realize this the greater will be our progress."

Pittsburgh Man Arrested.

WARSAW, IND., Aug. 21.—The annual meeting of stockholders and directors of the Winona Assembly association was held today. Gen. James R. Carnahan of Indianapolis and the Rev. Richard S. Holmes of Pittsburgh were elected directors.

SISTER BANNER HAD COSTLY EXPERIENCE.

Last night the Rev. Henry S. Hicks, pastor of the colored Methodist Episcopal church of Carnegie, had a hearing before Justice A. W. McMillan, on a charge of assault with an attempt to commit a felony. The case was discharged and the plaintiff had to pay the costs.

The information was made by Mrs. Anna Banner, a member of the congregation. When she was giving her evidence she contradicted herself and got mixed in her dates, and as there was no witnesses, the case was discharged. Mrs. Banner also made charges against two of the deacons of the church, William Watkins and James Adams with assault and battery, and this case was also discharged as a half a dozen witnesses testified they saw no abuse on the part of the deacons. Mrs. Banner had to pay the costs of both cases.

Court of Claims Vacancy Will Not Be Filled from Ohio—Last Sagamore Hill Luncheon Party Until President Returns.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—J. J. Hannahan, acting grand master, and F. W. Arnold, grand secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, today presented to President Roosevelt a handsomely engrossed invitation to attend the eighth biennial convention of the order at Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 8. The president indicated a desire to attend the convention if it were possible.

Senator Pritchard of North Carolina, who was at Sagamore Hill when the invitation was extended, asked the president to visit Asheville, N. C., if he made the trip to Chattanooga. The president promised to do so.

Senator Pritchard also discussed the vacancy on the court of claims bench with President Roosevelt. He had heard that the place would be given to North Carolina and came to present a candidate. The president strongly intimated that the appointment would not go to North Carolina or Ohio.

Senator Pritchard, Mr. Hannahan and Mr. Arnold were the guests of the president at luncheon, the other guests being Volney C. Foster of Chicago, Congressman William Alden Smith of Michigan, Jonas S. Van Duser, who was a colleague of Mr. Roosevelt when the latter was a member of the assembly, John A. Sleicher, editor of Leslie's Weekly, and S. B. Williams, chairman of the state Republican committee of Louisiana. Mr. Williams complimented the president on the character of his appointments and Mr. Smith discussed the arrangements for the president's trip to Michigan.

These gentlemen are about the last visitors the president will entertain until Sept. 3. He sails on the Sylph tomorrow morning for New Haven, Conn., where he will board his special train and begin his New England trip.

HELD A FIELD DAY.

Marksmen of Company D, Fourteenth Regiment, Contested for a Gold Medal.

Company D, Fourteenth regiment, national guard Pennsylvania, had a field day at the regimental rifle range at Salt Works station on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yesterday. About 20 members of the company, in charge of Capt. Franklin Blackstone, First Lieutenant David C. Farrar and Second Lieutenant Maurice E. Barr, went to the range early in the morning and were joined by some 20 or 25 members during the day, who entered the contest for the handsome medal presented by Capt. Blackstone for the best score.

The commissary of the company provided a fine luncheon. The scores were very good. At the close of the shoot an extended order drill was given, concluding with a sham battle.

The medal, which was won by Corporal Roth, is of a beautiful design, being a circle of gold with a white keystone, suspended from a gold bar bearing the name of the company and the name of the successful marksman. It is not to be contested for again, but is the property of the winner of yesterday's match. The score follows:

	200 yds.	500 yds.	Grand Total
Roth, corporal	27	28	55
Blackstone, captain	26	24	50
Gibbons, corporal	26	20	46
Schweitzer, 1st Sergt.	22	23	45
Gross, E., private	23	22	45
Koehler, sergeant	23	21	44
McGrogan, corporal	24	18	42
Snair, private	22	20	42
Stern, private	20	21	41
Hazlinger, private	19	20	39
Bassett, Geo., clerk	21	15	36

Lieuts. Farrar and Barr also qualified with the rifle, making scores of 32. All three officers of the company qualified with the revolver. A dozen other members of the company qualified with scores averaging from 26 to 35.

WAR VETERANS TOOK PART IN SHAM BATTLE

Successful Reproduction of a Military Engagement Given Last Night.

Peace and war were exemplified last evening at the first annual lawn fete of Col. P. D. Perchment camp, No. 263 of the department of Pennsylvania, Spanish-American War Veterans, which was held on the Fitzgerald lawn at the corner of the Beechwood boulevard and Hazelwood avenue.

The grounds were beautifully decorated and numerous refreshment booths were conveniently located where ice cream and lemonade were dispensed. Men in service uniform, with men of the national guard and Troop A of the Imperial Sabers of Homestead, were everywhere to be seen, and all was quiet and peaceful until about 9 o'clock, when the sharp crack of the rifle of one of the outposts, quickly followed by the rattling fire of all the pickets along the line, caused all amusement to cease. Bugle calls and sharp commands filled the air and the service men under command of Lieut. Wilson and Lieut. Coe, seized their arms and took up position behind their breastworks.

Down on the Beechwood boulevard the enemy, Companies B and G of the Fourteenth regiment, under commands of Captains Thomas Easton and Joseph Rising, were formed ready for the attack upon the booths of ice cream and lemonade. Skirmishers were sent out and the fire of the enemy attracted. Then in two divisions they commenced the assault upon the breastworks. Volley after volley was fired, to which the little band in the fortification responded with vigor.

After 10 minutes of close firing and furious din the order was given to charge, and the enemy rushed and carried the breastworks. No one was injured and there were no hard feelings.

A vaudeville entertainment followed the sham battle, in which Misses Margaret and Ethel Dawson, Miss Martha M. Moreland, Miss Hazel Keyser, Miss Sadie Byers, Miss Zoe Munsell, David Keyser and Horace Mentzer participated.

SUMMER COMPLAINT.

Proper Food Will Prevent It.

When the bowels go wrong in adults or children, quit all food but Grape-Nuts and a little cream or milk. The experience of one woman will be read with interest by many mothers who pass anxious days over little ones and become alarmed because the food does not agree with baby and he daily wastes away.

Mrs. W. H. Mennens of Little Falls, Minn., writes: "I want to tell you the good Grape-Nuts Food has done for my baby boy. When he was 10 months old he was taken with summer complaint and I could not find any prepared food that agreed with him. I was giving him doctor's medicine all the time, but he continued to lose in weight until he only weighed 15 lbs., having weighed 22 lbs. before he was taken sick. Finally the doctor told me that unless I could get some real nourishing food for him he could not live many days, and he advised me to get Grape-Nuts Food, which I did, and in five days he gained 4 ounces and in five weeks he weighed just 20 lbs.

"If any mother reading this letter wants to write to me personally I will gladly answer and tell her the full particulars regarding baby's sickness and the good Grape-Nuts did for him."

WIND AGAIN IN EVIDENCE

Nature Seems Against High Scores at Mt. Gretna Guard Shoot—One Team Is Selected to Represent State at Sea Girt.

By ROBERT WRAY,
Staff Correspondent.

Rifle Range, Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 21.—When the reville sounded this morning the range had a woe-begone appearance, as a heavy storm of wind and rain passed over the mountain peaks at daybreak. Pools of water were everywhere and all the roads leading into camp were heavy with mud. By the time breakfast was served all this had disappeared, as the ground is porous and quickly takes up moisture. The sky, however, was hidden by dark, threatening clouds, which shortly gave way before the teams were assembled at the first firing point. There was no wind, and it was such a day as the shooters had been wishing for.

It was the first brigade practice match and the teams of the three brigades were determined to exceed all records. But you cannot trust the weather in these mountains, as the riflemen found out before the noon mess call. A gale was blowing before the practice ended. Scores were broken in many cases, but had the day closed as it opened the records of this range would have been fractured. As the practice advanced the wind suddenly changed, and the scores began to fall away. The wind played over the disks of the clocks in such a puzzling way that the shooters had much trouble in finding the targets.

First Brigade Leads.

The best shooting was done at the 500-yard range by the First brigade, 32 points ahead of the crack Third brigade. The practice match was won by the First brigade in a canter, beating the Second by 49 points, and the Third by 11 points. The team of the Second brigade went to pieces on the 600-yard range, although the elements were playing fair to all.

The shooting of some of the individual members of the teams was phenomenal. Centers were found at nearly every shot, and interest clustered about the marksmen who were making bulls-eyes nearly every crack of their Krags. The highest individual score made during the brigade practice was shot by Private H. H. Lizear of the Sixth infantry, with 94 points. Lieutenant W. S. Sloan of the First regiment was a close second, with 92 points, which was tied by Private H. Porterfield of the Sixth regiment, and by Lieut. Bergstresser, inspector of the Eighth regiment, who came in third and fourth, respectively, Porterfield having made the highest score at 600 yards.

The individual work of the members of the Fourteenth, Tenth and Eighteenth regiments was excellent, and with the necessary practice on their home ranges would have been strong factors in the shooting today.

Close Up to Nineties.

Dugannie of the Fourteenth, Gunning and Sloan of the Sixteenth, Davis of the Eighteenth, and Fleck of the Sheridan troop ran their average within sight of the nineties, but were outshot by many members of the other two teams. Davis of the Eighteenth regiment shot a record score at the 500-yard range. He made 34 out of 35 points, and would have made the possible had not the wind veered on him as he pulled the trigger.

Sergeant F. E. Fleck of the Sheridan troop has done some of the best shooting since the range was opened, considering that he was using a carbine against the long infantry arm of the service. The last shot he fired in the brigade practice match today was under the most unfavorable conditions. The dinkey engine which hauls the narrow gauge train to the rifle range was passing the center of the range and had belched out a cloud of black smoke which covered the range. At that instant Fleck fired and every one proclaimed a miss, but when the smoke arose the marker disk showed red, and a four near the edge of the black was scored for him. It was the best shot ever made on this range under such conditions.

The selection of the cavalry squadron team to represent the state at Sea Girt, N. J., was made tonight and will be in command of Capt. C. S. W. Jones of the Sheridan troop of Tyrone. None of Capt. Jones' troopers was fortunate enough to get a place on the team, but being the senior cavalry commander in the National Guard, Capt. Jones was selected to command the team. The team will be composed of four troopers of the Second City troop and three from the First City troop.

The skirmish match, which started with practice yesterday, was shot off this afternoon and was won by the Ninth regiment by a score of 414 points, beating the Twelfth regiment 25 points. The inspector of rifle practice match was won by Lieut. E. R. Bergstresser of the Eighth infantry, beating Lieut. W. DeV. Foulke of the Second by one point. Lieut. Joseph S. Hammers of the Fifth infantry was a close third, but lost on the last shot. The Third brigade skirmish medal was captured by Lieut. Frank G. Darte by a score of 99, the highest score made in the Third brigade on the skirmish practice and match. The cavalry skirmish match was won by the First City troop by seven points.

On the Brigade Team.

The selection of the brigade team was completed tonight. Sergt. Gray of the Fourteenth and Sergt. Sutton and Corp. Wiley of the Fifth regiment having shot off this afternoon. The team is now composed of 12 men, and the Pittsburgh regiments are represented on it by Lieut. Paul Vitte and Sergt. James Blackhall of Company G and Sergt. Maj. C. M. Davis of the Eighteenth infantry. Following are the scores made in the brigade practice match this morning at the three ranges:: First brigade, 426-461-497. Total, 1,294. Second, 321-437-387. Total, 1,245. Third, 431-429-423. Total, 1,283.

Following are the scores made in the skirmish match this afternoon: First, 363; Second, 276; Third, 374; Fourth, 381; Fifth, 255; Sixth, 326; Eighth, 384; Ninth, 414; Tenth, 249; Twelfth, 389; Thirteenth, 270; Fourteenth, 379; Sixteenth, 340; Eighteenth, 302.

Cavalry skirmish match scores: First City troop, 391; Second City troop, 384; Sheridan troop, 338; Governor's troop, 312.

The team of the Thirteenth infantry was selected tonight to represent Pennsylvania in the interstate shoot at Sea Girt, N. J. The team will practice at the 1,000-yard range here tomorrow and will leave for Sea Girt Saturday morning. The selection of a brigade team to represent the state at the same shoot is now being made, but will not be announced until noon tomorrow.

BIG DOG NIPPED THE POLICEMAN

Two women, a dog and a park policeman created a bit of excitement in Greenfield avenue last night. The women were having a war of words, which wound up in blows. Park Policeman Peter McGinty separated the women, then attempted to arrest both of them, but did not figure on a huge specimen of "Bruno," which claimed one of the women as its mistress. The moment McGinty put his hands on the woman the dog sprang upon him. McGinty started down the avenue at break-neck speed, the dog pursuing. The brute finally reached him and sank its teeth in his right leg. McGinty's injuries were such that he had to go home.

Thief Worked During Fight—During the excitement caused by an arrest in front of the Fidelity Supply Company's store at Schoenville yesterday a sneak thief robbed the money drawer of $52. About noon a crowd of foreigners who were standing in front began to fight and everyone in the store rushed out to see what was going on.

Career of a Vicious Dog Ended—An alleged mad dog, which, it is said, has been running amuck in the Homewood district for a week, was shot and killed yesterday by H. Fuller of No. 7043 Hamilton avenue, who had been bitten by the canine. The dog is reported to have bitten three persons. The brute was owned by a man named Brown.

Caught by Cycle Cop—C. B. Brown, colored, was observed about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the neighbors while he was breaking a cellar window in the residence of Thomas F. Held, No. 217 Oakland avenue, whose family is out of town. A telephone message was sent to No. 4 police station. Officer Thomas F. Rohan, mounted on a bicycle, was sent after him. Brown fled, but was pursued by the officer and captured.

Change in Route—The cars of the Liberty avenue lines during the next two weeks will leave their route at Main street, cross to Penn avenue and run to the lower section of the city by way of Penn avenue. This is caused by the change of grade of Liberty avenue at Union station. On the return to East Liberty the Liberty avenue lines will run out Penn avenue to Main and then cross over to Liberty.

The Irish Fair—The arrangements for the Irish fair to be held in the Coliseum in Allegheny for two weeks, under the auspices of the Annunciation Roman Catholic church, are almost complete. The fair will be opened on Monday by Thomas F. Grady, the New York orator, and Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, also of New York. Donations and letters of encouragement have been received from Ireland, New York and Boston.

Burgess Horner Is Firm—Burgess Horner of Wilkinsburg will not recede from his enforcement of the ordinance to prevent peddling, sales from door to door, and huckstering in that town, unless a license is taken out. His action and that of the Pittsburgh authorities, in retaliating upon Wilkinsburg hucksters, has caused considerable bitterness among the merchants of the borough and city, but the burgess says he will stand his ground.

Horsewhipped His Girl—Walter Brooks, a colored teamster, was fined $10 yesterday by Magistrate McGarey at Central police station. It was alleged that while driving in Ross street he found Fannie Plowden, also colored, walking with another man. Then Brooks jumped from his wagon and horsewhipped her. When Brooks was placed under arrest Fannie protested and she also was arrested. At the hearing she said Brooks did not hurt her badly. She was discharged.

PLUCKY COLORED GIRL HELD HER PRISONER

Caught Albert Moten, Who Is Suspected of Stealing Her Father's Team.

Lottie Wayland, 16 years old and a belle in the colored society in Arch street extension, Allegheny, was the heroine of an exciting capture yesterday in Pittsburgh. Lottie saw the man who was suspected of stealing her father's $350 team of draught horses and nailed him on the spot. Despite his cries not to tear the new suit which he is supposed to have bought with the money derived from the sale of the horses, she hung onto the young man and had the satisfaction of seeing him locked up.

Albert Moten is the negro charged with stealing the horses and A. J. Wayland, Lottie's father, is the man who lost them. Wayland lives at No. 132 Arch street extension. He has been sick for six months and had full faith in Albert Moten, one of his drivers. On Tuesday Wayland discovered that his fine team, worth $350, was missing. He reported the loss to the Allegheny police, but knowing something about the Allegheny police he decided not to trust entirely to them and started out himself to look up the horses.

He, of course, went to the hill district, where many negroes live, and reported the loss to the police station. By making inquiries on the hill Wayland located both of his horses in the possession of men who had bought them recently. Having found his horses Wayland reported back to the Allegheny police, who were hunting for the animals in Bellevue.

While Wayland was finding his horses his daughter Lottie was having her experience. Passing along Fourth avenue yesterday she saw Moten dodge out of an alley and she hailed him.

"Aren't you going to treat me, Albert?" she said, guilefully.

"Certainly, Miss Lottie. I'll buy some peaches," he replied.

Keeping her eye open for an officer Lottie followed Moten to the fruit stand across the street. Albert bought the peaches and started away, but Lottie grabbed for him and as his coat tails in his haste flew up her hand got into his hip pocket. She held tight. Albert had on new clothes and he yelled to Lottie not to tear them, but Lottie held tight. Moten grappled with her and threw her down. She got up immediately and, yelling murder, ran after and chased him into the arms of two policemen.

Lottie went over to Allegheny and blushingly reported her capture to the police there. A few minutes after she left her father came to inform the police that he had found his horses, and as soon as he heard of the arrest he made an information before Magistrate Hunneshagen charging Moten with larceny. Moten was taken over to Allegheny and will have his hearing today.

MEETINGS OF CITIZENS.

Important Gatherings to Be Held on the North Side During the Coming Campaign.

A meeting of the executive committee of the North Side division of the Citizens party, in conjunction with the ward chairmen and the committees on speakers and organization, was held last night in Kenyon hall, Federal street, Allegheny.

It was decided to open the campaign with a mass meeting in Kenyon hall, on Friday evening, September 5. At this meeting George Shiras III., candidate for congress, will be the principal speaker.

It was decided, also, that mass meetings will be held every Friday evening at Kenyon hall during the campaign, and that at least six meetings will be held in each Allegheny ward during the fall, and that the committee on speakers shall select only local talent to address the meetings.

The Rocky Ford Cantaloupe.

Since the first season the Rocky Ford melon was introduced throughout the east, it has been considered the best in the market. Everyone asks for the Rocky Ford as they know it has a spicy flavor, sweet as honey, and is solid and firm. In many instances you have to place your confidence in the dealer to send you the melons in the original crates and sometimes you receive melons which are from the state of Colorado; but are not from Rocky Ford. Then, again, having obtained the genuine melon, they may have been cut before they were ripe or else picked too late and shipped.

Mr. Albert M. Travis, 645 Liberty street, states that the "Stag Brand" melons, grown by the Rocky Ford Fancy Cantaloupe Growers' union, are the best that can be procured in the market, as this association has careful and experienced men who do the picking, packing, inspecting and shipping. You can rest assured when purchasing these melons from Albert M. Travis, who is the general agent, you are getting the finest quality of Rocky Ford melon.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1902.

TWELVE PAGES.

Difference With a Distinction.

It is quite definitely understood that the old organization is determined to have its county ticket in a column headed by the Democratic state ticket. If the Union party cannot be worked for that result a party will be created for the purpose.

This is important merely as demonstrating the insincerity of the advice to Judge Pennypacker to decline the indorsement of the Citizens party on the ground of "regularity." It is the same men who were giving that advice who are planning a Democratic ticket for the Republican county nominees. It is left for them to explain what becomes of their pretenses to "regularity." In the case of Judge Pennypacker and the Citizens it was simply a question whether the Republican candidate for governor should repulse an unsolicited offer of support made by a body of reputable voters. In the matter of the organization county candidates it is a question of the propriety of soliciting or creating an indorsement in the interest of the Democratic state ticket.

Reform of the Tariff.

Secretary Shaw's latest speech on the tariff and protection has stirred up the free traders, who point out that the way to insure tariff revision is to turn the job over to the Democratic party. No doubt the Democrats would do it very thoroughly. Revision of the tariff in spots may be a necessity, and if so the cure should be undertaken by the physicians rather than the undertakers. The cure of ills, if any exist, will be accomplished with greater satisfaction to all concerned by the doctors than by those engaged in another line of business. We have not done with the tariff. The difference between curing a tariff law and digging a grave for it is great. When the people of the United States want to bury protection out of sight they will call on the Democratic party, but not before. They have found protection very useful in the business of the nation and will have further use for it. "Reform of the tariff by its friends" may mean reform "the day after never," but even that is better than reform by its enemies, which means reform out of existence, with all that that implies.

Sage's Talking Day.

Uncle Russell Sage is one of the silent men of Wall street, but he talks occasionally. When he has anything on his mind that he wants to get rid of he speaks plainly, plentifully and to the largest possible audience. It was his day for talking yesterday and the burden of his thought was that Pierpont Morgan is doing too much combining of vast industries. Mr. Sage is afraid—or at least he says he is—that Mr. Morgan will trip on a grapevine some day and spill the biggest load of valuables that one man ever carried.

Of course, Uncle Russell does not expect anyone to get frightened, because there are no grapevines growing in Wall street just now. He is merely displaying a cautionary signal. Mr. Sage had a toe pinched in one of Mr. Morgan's consolidation operations a year or two ago, and the toe may have been hurting him again. Or, maybe Mr. Sage has advance information concerning some other process of binding together contemplated by Mr. Morgan, and has another toe in the way.

In any event it will not be well to take Mr. Sage too seriously. He talks in that way once in awhile. He is in no danger of being ruined, himself, and probably has no more than a momentary interest in the welfare of Mr. Morgan. It is just possible he may have sold a line of "calls" on combinable securities and will feel better in September. He may have been depressed by a falling barometer, or, under some kindly influence, may have concluded Mr. Morgan's home-coming made the time ripe to give the great organizer a little advice. However that may be, Mr. Morgan will be likely to take his own counsel and the public can take as much as it likes of Mr. Sage's.

Opportunity for the Recorder.

Since Recorder Brown has found some means to balk the free-pass fiend, is regularly in his City hall office, and presumably is trying to avert the deluge, there is increased interest in city affairs. Yesterday the recorder declared emphatically there will be no further interference with Superintendent McAleese in the conduct of the police bureau. Rather, Mr. Brown said there had not been and will not be any interference, but it may be construed that he missed something while attending to his work in another city building, far from the madding crowd of pass hunters.

Recorder Brown also took sufficient interest in Controller Larkin's warning about revenues and expenditures to ask for further information. The tone of his letter is earnest and the result may be to the advantage of the city. No doubt there are ways in which expenditures may be curtailed without serious injury to the municipality. Certainly there are means by which revenues may be increased without imposing undue burdens upon the people. In fact, there are recognized sources of revenue which only need attention to secure funds that will be needed before the close of the fiscal year.

Apparently it is the recorder's purpose to have the controller point out as many of these things as he may be able from his investigation of the business of the city and its resources. If such proves to be the case and the recorder intends to use his comprehensive powers to prevent an accumulation of debt, a break-down of the public service, or a legal controversy, the new spirit will be welcomed and commended. Whether or not by the adoption of this policy the recorder will avert the deluge, there can be no doubt it will lead to better government than "the city has been accustomed to have." It may be the machine organ did not dream of the recorder pursuing such a policy when it rebuked his absenteeism, but, even so, a straightforward course in the public interest will be gratefully acknowledged.

The People Are Not Tired.

It is the Philadelphia Inquirer, strangely enough, that declares:

If there is one thing more than another which has made the people of this country tired in connection with the agitation which has been going on over the admission on especially favorable terms of Cuban sugar and tobacco to the American market it has been the constant assertion by the advocates of Cuban reciprocity that it was the duty of the United States to make the concession which was sought; that this country was under a solemn obligation to do so; that in failing to pass the Cuban reciprocity bill congress had committed a flagrant breach of honor, and a lot more to the same effect. This kind of talk has been resented because most people have felt that it was wholly unjustified.

The Inquirer asserts that no promises of reciprocity have been given Cuba and that "Mr. McKinley told the Cubans that he would recommend reciprocity, but that only congress could grant it, and Mr. Roosevelt said no more." That, however, was nearly enough. Mr. McKinley was very earnest in his recommendation. So has been President Roosevelt. Has the Inquirer read his Independence Day speech in Pittsburgh? Did it note his efforts to impress congressmen and senators with the duty of passing the reciprocity measure? The president apparently does not agree with the Inquirer. Does our contemporary recall that the house passed the reciprocity measure and that a majority of the Republicans in the senate favored it? If it has read the platforms of the Republican state conventions of this year has it noticed that any of them sustain its view that "if there is one thing more than another that has made the people tired" it is the demand for the granting of tariff favors to Cuba? We don't think there is the tired feeling the Inquirer imagines. There is instead a popular demand that Cuba be generously dealt with. If the Inquirer doesn't believe this it may ask senators and representatives who went home to their constituents after opposing the Cuban reciprocity bill.

Really, the Inquirer may be tired, but the Inquirer is not the people. Before its tired feeling overwhelms it, it should seek a tonic in intercourse with the plain people whose views in the aggregate we term public sentiment.

A Troublesome Monarch.

Spain is in deep distress again over the eccentricities of her boy king, Alphonso. In an effort to show off the new ruler by visiting some of the principal cities of the kingdom, the subordinate grandees of this personally conducted tour find themselves with a veritable elephant on their hands in the youthful Alphonso. When his royal guides want him to go one place he is almost invariably seized with a desire to go in an altogether opposite direction, while his whims and eccentricities have involved the entire court in the most amusing and embarrassing predicaments. We fear Spain is taking her youthful monarch far too seriously. In trying to make a king out of a foolish, headstrong boy, the nation has undertaken a contract that is sure to be spoiled at several stages of its progress. Alphonso is evidently not the sort of young man to be impressed with either the dignity or the formalities of his position, and if the stories concerning his brutal treatment of his mother be correct we do not suppose he is open to persuasion on the score of moral conventionalities.

There may be some foundation for the suspicion that is gaining ground in Spanish court circles that the young king is mentally unbalanced, but we hardly think so. He is simply a self-willed youngster who is determined now that he is in a position to command obedience and deference, to get the most out of his chance without much regard to the means by which it is exacted.

A Satisfactory Condition.

Publication of the volume containing statements of congressional appropriations inspires the small minds of the Democratic press to put forth such a statement as that "the era of billion dollar congresses has been left behind, and we have apparently entered upon a period of billion dollar sessions." It is not the statement itself that is to be found fault with, but the spirit that underlies it. It may be pointed out in reply that the era of all small things, except the small minds of the fault-finders, has also been left behind. Speaker Reed once replied to people of the small sort that this is a billion dollar country. It has been growing rapidly since then and is easily a billion dollar a year country. Furthermore, it may be said that the people are getting the worth of their money from the government every day in the year. In addition they know they are getting it. Under other auspices it cost them much more than the cost of running the government. They know that also, and they are satisfied.

The Naval Maneuvers.

When the practice of holding annual naval maneuvers was instituted by Secretary Tracy eleven years ago, the then "new" navy consisted of five cruisers and two gunboats. A practice cruise on a considerably larger scale was ordered in 1895, and in 1898 the first fleet and squadron drill was held. These early maneuvers were all on a necessarily small scale and cannot be compared in importance to the present extensive practice movements now being conducted off the New England coast between Portland and Cape Cod. In the imposing mimic warfare that is being waged on this wide stretch of water the pride and strength of the new American navy is assembled under the leadership of two veteran commanders. The white squadron, under Commander Pilsbury, and the blue squadron, under Rear Admiral Higginson, will invite and repel attack under the rules of modern naval warfare, and the display will mark the efficiency and progress of our sea defenses within the past few years.

England is far in advance of us in the use and perfection of this means of naval drill. The practice gained and the definite establishment of rules governing the movements of vessels in an attack may be determined with great advantage. Of course, it is impossible to simulate a naval battle so as to derive large practical benefit for the service in the ship movements. But it is possible to accurately determine the time and imitate the actual methods of search and defensive action on the one hand and offensive maneuvering on the other. Then, too, these operations serve admirably as tests for both ships and men, revealing tactical deficiencies and encouraging a more definite and skilled service.

One of the returned financial magnates objected to the grammar used in an interview with him. We suppose he overlooked the picture that accompanied the interview or else his vanity is of a literary kind exclusively.

Time to "Blow In."

From the Philadelphia Post.

Senator Stewart of Nevada tells this story of Mark Twain's early days in Carson City.

"At that time," said Senator Stewart, "the humorist had not attained to the philosophic calm which comes with college degrees. He was a journalist, and an unterrified one. In Carson City he boarded at the home of his brother, who was a model citizen and a Christian.

"One morning I was a guest of this brother at breakfast. We had just seated ourselves at the table when a voice dravled from the stairway above:

"'Have you read the scripture lesson this morning?'

"'Yes,' was the reply.

"'Yes, Sam,' said the host, smiling at me.

"There was a pause, and then in the now well-known drawl came the further question:

"'Said grace?'

"'Yes,' responded the patient head of the household.

"'All right, then,' came the cheerful comment from the stairway; 'I'll be right down.' And presently the irreverent youth, who in a few years was to promote the gayety of nations, joined us at the breakfast table."

HORSE RACING AND POLITICS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.

Politics and horse racing are the two topics uppermost in New York just now. It is true that the center of the sporting whirlpool is hundreds of miles from this city—Saratoga, to-wit—but the outer rings disturb the surface of Tammany society here, from the wigwam in Fourteenth street to the Bronx, rocking the Hoffman house in passing. Many of the braves are in Saratoga, but others have not yet got away from Gotham and perhaps will not go away at all, in spite of the fact that the Democratic state committee will be called together at Saratoga on Saturday morning. The stories of great losses on the race tracks that come down from Saratoga keep the faithful who still hover about the various Tammany headquarters in perpetual worry, for it is not in accordance with Tammany ideas that any of the order should lose, with the "other fellow" profiting thereby. Yet comes the dismal report that John F. Carroll, ex-Mayor Van Wyck and Senator Pat McCarren, all close friends of Richard Croker when he was the visible head of Tammany, have between them dropped $40,000 on "the ponies" in the last two weeks. Martin Engel, the czar of that large part of the East Side known as "de Ate," is said to have lost $5,000 in the same period because his judgment on race horses was bad. All this race gossip is mixed up with politics in a confusing way, but it is quite in accordance with the habit of Tammany to follow the two pursuits of horse racing and political candidate-making at the same time. The state committee might not have arranged to meet in Saratoga had there not been the attractions of the track to reinforce those of the committee room, and if there had not been something to take place perhaps the bookmakers would not have obtained so much Tammany cash. This is the opinion expressed here, at least, and I have not heard it disputed by anyone. That Tammany is uneasy is evident in the conversation of many who are personally concerned, the main question being "what kind of a factor in the campaign will Devery be?" Devery remains at home at the corner of Twenty-eighth street and Eighth avenue, and smiles grimly.

Fin Reynolds Gets Cosy Place.

Fin Reynolds today signed a contract to go with "The Cosy Corner," a rural play which has already been produced with big success. Mr. Reynolds has a strong character part, which has been written into the play especially for him.

Wanted—Case of Smallpox.

It is an old superstition—that is what doctors here call it—that smallpox will drive tuberculosis out of the human system. A middle-aged, well-dressed man today applied to Dr. Lederle, the health commissioner, for permission to send his wife to the smallpox hospital at North Brother island, that she might catch the disease. He said she was in the last stages of consumption, and she was willing to take the off-chance of saving her life by going through an attack of smallpox. Dr. Lederle refused to grant the request, but if the woman determines to catch smallpox the chances are she will find some way of obtaining her will.

Slow Way to Reach Coney.

It seems to be becoming a fad for swimming experts to try in how short a time they can swim from the Battery to Coney Island. William J. Duffy, 49 years of age, has just accomplished the distance, nearly 13 miles, in 4 hours and 10 minutes. The feat has stirred the emulation of all other good swimmers in this city. There is to be a swimming match on Sunday morning, several contestants diving into the water at the Battery to get to Coney Island as soon as they can. The water in New York harbor, and particularly off old Coney, is pretty rough, as a rule. But that does not frighten the intending participants in the race, and it is expected there will be some lively swimming through the Narrows on Sunday.

Fasting Not Wholly Necessary.

Amid all the lugubrious expressions about $15 a ton anthracite coal, 40 cents a pound beefsteak, and horse feed out of reach this winter, it is consoling to hear, on good authority, that meat will tumble in the spring, that coal probably will not be much, if any, higher than usual, in the cold weather, and that oats will come down from $1 50 a bag, their price now, to about half that sum, as soon as the new crop can be used, about the first of October. Things are bad enough in New York, so far as cost goes, but they are not so bad as croakers make them out, after all.

New Baby Record Breaker, as Usual.

Central park managerie is proud of the fact that an American elk baby was born there last night. Superintendent Smith, with true paternal satisfaction, makes the solemn announcement that it is the largest elk for its age that was ever seen. It already sits up and takes notice, and it was admired by hundreds of visitors today.

Need Gentleman and Scholar.

An examiner of passenger baggage in the customs service is required in this city, and the United States civil service commission will look into the merits of different candidates for the job. It is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the conditions. Considering how bitter have been the complaints of passengers on steamships of the methods of the custom house authorities here, it is likely that the examination of candidates will be a strict one. There are evils to be corrected in the department, and perhaps one way to do this is to make sure that the men who are brought actually into contact with the public shall be men eminently fitted for the very delicate task of determining whether a probably innocent man or woman is or is not a smuggler.

Gotham in Fruit Trade.

The city of New York owns an apple orchard, and it advertised today that it was prepared to sell the apples to the highest bidder. The fruit trees are on 50 parcels of land about the new Croton reservoir, and there are many hundred bushels of apples on them. The advertisement of the auction was published today in the City Record, and there will no doubt be some lively competition among apple speculators. There are conditions governing the sale, but they are only as to restoring fences which may be pulled down in getting the apples, and are such as any Jersey farmer would insist on in making a similar bargain.

On Secret Mission to Dead Prelate.

Bearing a letter of introduction to Archbishop Corrigan, whom he did not know was dead, a Persian priest, Navary Bar Elwas by name, came last evening on the steamship Patricia, having embarked at Bremen. Father Elwas, who is of commanding presence, says in French that he does not know why he is here, having been sent on a secret mission by Archbishop Thomas of Urumiah, in Northern Persia. Whether he is to establish a church here in this city for the small colony of Catholic orientals he does not know. He is to present himself at the late archbishop's house, there to learn the nature of his mission.

Cruel Official Stops Smuggler.

There was not much chance for the fashionably-dressed woman who stepped down the gangplank from the liner Kronprinz Wilhelm when she was faced by the customs officer on the pier. He looked at her coldly and remarked: "I know exactly where you have that pearl necklace you bought in Paris concealed, and I advise you to give it up to me without any delay." What could the poor woman do? She produced from some hiding place in her gown a pearl necklace, with diamond clasps, worth, it is said, $20,000, and handed it to the officer. He took it and that was the end of the transaction. The woman had bought it in Europe and had been watched until she went aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm. Then a cable message to the authorities on this side made the task of the custom house people easy. The unfortunate passenger is said to be a prominent society woman of New York.

Mrs. Latimer Brings Clews.

Mrs. Sadie Latimer, widow of Albert C. Latimer, who was murdered in his home in Hancock street by a midnight intruder late in June, has returned to Brooklyn, and since her return the police have taken a renewed interest in the case. It is said that Capt. Buchanan and Detective Harrington are working upon some new clews which are related in some way to Mrs. Latimer's return to town.

Vanderbilt Can't Buy Success.

Lake Success, near North Hempstead, Long Island, has an irritating name, according to W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. The young multi-millionaire finds that he cannot obtain possession of the property without a struggle. First, he has been outbid, and, second, the citizens are loathe to part with the pleasure ground at any price. Mr. Vanderbilt's offer of $50,000 has induced another prominent Long Island man to bid $75,000 for it. This man is said to be a representative of several wealthy men who would be ready at a moment's notice to pay their money if their proposition was acted upon favorably. They want to stock the lake for private fishing.

Bayonne Guardian of Law Dead.

Major, a remarkable police dog, is dead at Bayonne, N. J., which is virtually a suburb of Greater New York nowadays. The dog had been a member of the police force for 10 years, and had done patrol duty from the time he was 11 months old. He assisted in many important arrests. Major lived in the Third ward police sub-station when he did not go to the home of his master, Chas. A. Collier. He reported for duty at the police station for the night tour beginning at 6 o'clock, and when the beat was finished, at 4 o'clock in the morning, the dog would go back to the station and, after a couple of hours' sleep, go home for his breakfast. He would never follow an officer of the department. A patrolman was good enough for him.

Big Chief's Daughter an Expert.

Among the expert women swimmers at Far Rockaway is Miss Mary Devery, daughter of "Big Chief" Devery. She thinks nothing of remaining in the water for four hours at a time. While she was bathing at Seaside today several fishing sloops were anchored off Rockaway. Her father was standing on the beach. "May," he shouted, "I would like to eat a nice, fresh bluefish. Will you swim to one of those sloops and get one for me?" Miss Devery swam out, but came back empty handed. There were no bluefish on the boats.

Devery Imports Barbecue Cook.

"Big Chief" Devery has announced that he has postponed his barbecue for longshoremen because he could not find anyone in the district who is able to superintend the cooking of whole beeves. He will import Sheriff Calloway of Georgia, an adept in the art, to do the work. The barbecue will be held in a vacant lot, and there will be beef for everybody. Incidentally there will be beer. Devery does not drink much, but he is politician enough to know that without beer there would be very few votes gained by beef.

Big Prizes Offered for Dogs.

We are getting toward the dog show. The Ladies' Kennel association will hold its annual exhibition in Madison Square garden in the early fall. That women are capable of conducting a dog show was evidenced by the success of the initial venture of the association last year. The garden was thronged by lovers of high class dogs, of which there were upward of 1,500 on exhibition. Encouraged by their success, elaborate arrangements are making for this show. Upward of $10,000 in prize money will be offered.

From the New York Times.

Ex-Congressman Tim Campbell says Mrs. Campbell spoke to him the other day about the advertisement of a buttonless shirt.

"What kind of a shirt is that?" she inquired.

"Just like mine," answered the ex-congressman, who in telling the story said Mrs. Campbell didn't speak to him for a week.

"Have you done anything to make the human race richer and happier?" asked the big-hearted philanthropist.

"Well," answered the man with icicles in his arteries, "I haven't had time to experiment on any member of the human race except myself. And in that connection I can truthfully say I have done my best."—Washington Star.

"Pshaw!" she exclaimed, after locking the trunk, "I've forgotten to put in my bathing suit."

"Is that so?" said her husband. "Never mind. I've sworn off smoking, you know."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Why, don't you see? You can use my cigar case to pack it in."—Philadelphia Press.

"The trouble with me, doctor," said the man on the lounge, turning a weary eye on the physician, "is that I am all run down and need repairing. But won't you have something to drink before you examine me?"

"No, thanks," said the medical practitioner, sitting down and proceeding to feel the patient's pulse. "I think I can promise you the repairs all right, but I'm not a dry dock."—Chicago Tribune.

CRISPI'S EFFECTS SOLD FOR A SONG

By THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

All the household effects, furniture, art treasures and mementoes of various description of the late Premier Crispi have just been sold by public auction at Naples for a ridiculously small sum. The portraits in oil of the present king and his two predecessors on the throne which they had each presented to the dead statesman were knocked down, along with the drawing-room furniture, for the preposterous sum of $400, while the reading lamp of him who used to be known as Italy's "Grand Old Man," and which he used when working at his desk at night, went for the sum of $1 30. Several souvenirs presented to Crispi by the late emperor of Germany and the present kaiser were rescued by the German consul. But gifts from Bismarck and from other famous contemporaries were all dispensed, no one knows whither.

This treatment of the belongings of a man who has played so great a role in Italian history as Crispi has created a most painful impression both in Italy and abroad. It is ascribed to differences between the widow, Dona Lina, and her daughter, the Princess Linguaglossa, about money matters, as well as about the disposition of the dead man's papers. Certainly it has not been financial necessity that has compelled them to resort to such an extremity. The princess received a handsome marriage portion at the time of her wedding, in addition to which her husband owns large estates in Sicily, while the widow enjoys a pension of $4,000 a year from the Italian government, added to which she is generally understood to have set aside large sums when her husband was in office.

Archduchess Would Be a Nun.

The breaking off of the engagement of Archduchess Maria Annunciata of Austria and of Duke Siegfried of Bavaria has been followed by an appeal on the part of the archduchess for permission to enter holy orders and take the vows of a Benedictine nun. The archduchess is already the abbess of the Order of Noble Ladies of Heradshani at Prague, which is a sort of semi-ecclesiastical office invariably held by a member of the imperial family. Indeed, the lady abbess of this particular order is the only woman to whom is accorded the right of fulfilling certain episcopal functions, it being the prerogative of her office to crown the queen of Bohemia when the cardinal archbishop of Prague crowns the king. Among the insignia of her rank are an episcopal mitre and an episcopal crozier, and she wears an episcopal ring of office which the ladies of the order are required to kiss.

But there are no vows taken in connection with this order either by the lady abbess or its members. They are at liberty to wed any time they wish, this, of course, entailing their leaving the order, which was organized for the purpose of providing for the maintenance of ladies of the nobility who had become impoverished through no fault of their own. The queen-mother of Spain held the position of abbess until her marriage to King Alfonso, drawing a stipend as such of $30,000 a year, while each of the members of the order bears the honorary title of canoness.

Emperor May Not Consent.

The young Archduchess Maria Annunciata, who is a half-sister to the heir apparent of the Austro-Hungarian throne, is deeply religious. She has taken her position as abbess of the Noble Order at Prague very seriously, and the sudden discovery of the antecedents of the man whom she had promised to marry, and which she had until then ignored, have had the effect of not only causing her to request him to release her from her troth, but likewise to determine her to devote herself more completely than before to a life of piety by becoming a Benedictine nun.

It is doubtful whether the emperor will grant her the necessary permission. There is only one member of any royal family in Europe who is in a convent, and has actually taken the full vows of a nun, namely, the widow of that Dom Miguel of Braganza, who ruled for several years over Portugal as its king, being eventually deposed and driven into exile in order to make way for his niece, Queen Maria Della Gloria.

With regard to the breaking off of the engagement, it was a matter which was arranged between the young people themselves, and has not been construed in any way as an affront by the Bavarian court. The duke has never been guilty of any dishonorable conduct, but he has led a very fast life indeed, is head over ears in debt, and has had all kinds of feminine entanglements, some of them of a sensational character, so it is not astonishing that a young girl, so religiously reared as the archduchess, should have become frightened and shocked when she learned of the past life of the man to whom she had plighted her troth.

Would Forgive Lady for Horse.

Australians are essentially a sporting people, and in no portion of the British empire is the love of horse racing more pronounced than in the Antipodes. It is necessary to mention this in order to explain why the Australians were so much disappointed to discover that the report that Col. Henry McCalmont had been appointed governor-general in the place of Lord Hopetoun, was a mere canard. They would have gladly welcomed him, and cheerfully overlooked the circumstance that his fascinating wife happens to be a divorcee, if only he had consented to bring with him to Australia his famous horse, "Isinglass," the winner of the Derby, of St. Leger, and many other great races. In fact, the Australians would have overlooked any disadvantages of a social character in connection with the lady on account of the horse.

"Isinglass" is probably the only horse, either at Newmarket or elsewhere, who enjoys the proud distinction of having a complete residence of his own, entirely separated from any other member of the equine fraternity. Col. McCalmont has erected for "Isinglass" a large and handsomely gabled cottage at Cheveley park, his place near Newmarket. The principal apartment is a big loose box as beautifully neat and perfectly ordered as a lady's drawing-room. A window at one side of the loose box opens into the living room of the special groom who watches over the horse day and night, whose only duty it is to look after the horse's special welfare. He has two or three trusted assistants.

"Isinglass," who since his retirement from the turf still continues to earn for his owner the very comfortable income of $50,000 a year, as sire, is never left alone, or rather, he is never left unguarded or unattended, and a more beautiful, more well behaved and more supremely noble animal than this grand seigneur of the equine race it would be impossible to find.

Australians fully appreciate the supreme advantage which it would be to their turf to have such a horse as this in the Antipodes, and have not yet abandoned all hope of getting the colonel as their governor-general, on the understanding, of course, that he brings the horse. Unfortunately the colonial secretary has little or no knowledge of horse racing, and has never manifested the slightest interest in either this or any other branch of English sports. Consequently it is difficult to get him to understand that the appointment of the colonel to succeed Lord Hopetoun would be very popular.

Chance to "Hoot" Accepted.

From the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

"Cincinnati worked the hoodoo off on Our Own," says The Pittsburgh Gazette, weeping over the licking the Pirates got last Sunday. It wasn't a hoodoo, neighbor. It was because of the passing of the hoodoo and the return of the days of baseball in Cincinnati.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Gen. Franz Sigel.

Gen. Franz Sigel died at his home in New York yesterday from old age. He was in his 78th year. He was born in Sinsheim, Baden. He received a military education and took a leading part in the German revolution of 1848 and 1849. At the close of the war he retreated with his army to Switzerland, and in 1852 came to America, trying his hand as a school teacher in New York. Later he went to St. Louis. In 1861 Sigel became colonel of the Third Missouri Union volunteers, aided in capturing Camp Jackson and July 5, 1861, fought and won the battle of Carthage. He was made a brigadier and served under Fremont against Price, commanding two divisions at Pea Ridge. After a disagreement with Halleck Sigel resigned, but was soon made a major general and commanded at Harpers Ferry. He succeeded to the charge of Fremont's forces and served gallantly at the second battle of Bull Run. On September 14, 1862, he was assigned to the Eleventh army corps, and in 1863 commanded a grand division. In 1864 he was placed in charge of the department of West Virginia. He fought an unsuccessful battle with Breckinridge, 3,000 against 5,000, at New Market, and was relieved of his command. In 1868 he settled in New York city and was defeated for secretary of the commonwealth in 1869. In 1871 he was chosen register by the Republicans. When Hancock ran for president he became a Democrat. Cleveland made him United States pension agent in New York city.

Funeral of Mrs. Agnes R. Fulton.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Agnes R. Fulton, mother of ex-Mayor Andrew Fulton, who died at Atlantic City Tuesday night, will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of her son-in-law, J. S. Arnold, Baum street and Fairmont avenue, East End. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Locke of Ohio will officiate. The Dermitt quartet will furnish the music of the service and sing "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The pallbearers will be W. J. Jackson, Joseph Shallenberger, James McDonald, Judge Christopher Magee, Samuel Ewart and A. H. Patterson. The interment will be made in the family burial plot in Allegheny cemetery.

C. S. Strawn.

C. S. Strawn, a well-known newspaper man, is dead at his late home in Washington, Pa., aged 29. He leaves a widow and two children. Mr. Strawn was at one time editor of the Oakdale Times, but gave up his position there three years ago to establish the West Washington Record, a daily, which he sold later. He was a son of S. G. Strawn of Greene county, and the greater part of his life was spent in Waynesburg.

Obituary Notes.

Edwin T. Whitmore, 53 years old, for many years employed at the Pittsburgh postoffice, is dead at his late home, No. 551 Graham street, East End. He is survived by one sister, who lives in Philadelphia.

John Henderson, 38 years old, died yesterday morning at the home of his brother, No. 33 Elm street. He was a member of St. Paul's Roman Catholic cathedral.

Word has been received in Pittsburgh of the death at Sacramento, Cal., of Miss Phoebe Bailey, the 15-year-old daughter of W. R. Bailey, a former resident of this city. Miss Bailey was a granddaughter of Capt. W. F. Bailey of Munhall.

PERSONALS.

Agents of the Equitable Life Assurance society reporting to Manager E. A. Woods of the Pittsburgh office left with their families in special cars over the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday on the trip annually provided by Mr. Woods for those of his force who write over $100,000 of new business between January 1 and July 1. The party numbered 57. They will stay at Atlantic City until next Tuesday, going thence to Washington, D. C., and leaving the same evening by steamer down the Potomac to Old Point Comfort. Thursday they go to Norfolk, Va., and by steamer travel to New York. The rest of the week will be spent in that city, the return trip being started Sunday evening. Those in the party follow: Edward Agnew, wife and two daughters; I. N. Bair, H. K. Bengel and wife, B. C. Boyd, T. S. Boyd, J. M. Cavender, R. P. Clarke and wife, E. J. Cox, E. B. Coburn, William M. Dun and wife, J. H. Esbridge, Leonard Fosdick, T. P. Fleeson and wife, J. W. Gelbel, J. H. Grant, S. L. Goldman, Max Kaulback, S. M. Keifer, W. E. Lane, T. W. Leonard, Dr. W. A. Logmecker, J. S. Lynn, J. S. Mardis and wife, J. L. Miller, W. A. Moore, T. F. Myler, J. S. McCarter, J. N. McConnell, Mrs. M. E. McCready, W. H. McManus and wife, E. S. Naly, C. R. Notman, W. Voth, O. A. Patterson, J. P. Ramsey, W. B. Rankin, O. M. Sanford, C. F. Schlaeudicher, Charles H. Seaton, Charles A. Steele and wife, W. C. Stephens and wife, H. S. Thayer, A. E. and L. Umstead, Charles A., Lawrence C. and W. A. Woods.

"It is astonishing how much superstition still remains among people generally," said the Rev. R. J. Renihan, professor in St. Ambrose's college at Davenport, Ia., who was a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited last night, returning to his duties after a vacation at Atlantic City. "Over 50,000 people, I am informed, left Atlantic City on August 17 and 18, on account of the prophecies of a tidal wave coming. The fact that there was an unusually heavy tide the evening of August 18 added to the fears. The hotels suffered greatly from lack of help."

J. F. Boggs, treasurer of the Federal Oil Company of Parkersburg, W. Va., left on the Pennsylvania limited last evening for Florence, Col., to look after large interests he holds in the Colorado oil fields. W. H. Zahniser, president of the Federal company, was in Pittsburgh last evening stopping at Newell's.

James Mullins and W. J. Mullins, well-known citizens of Wooster, O., are at the Lincoln. They come to Pittsburgh on coal business.

Henry—W. A. V. Dalzell, Moundsville, W. Va.; W. H. Herr, Altoona; C. E. Reed and wife, Fairmont, W. Va

THE RECORDER ASKS LARKIN FOR OTHER FIGURES

In a Letter He Requests Further Information as to City's Big Deficit.

PAYROLL MAY BE SLASHED

City Executive Desires Controller's Opinion on Subject of Reducing Number of City Employes—Another Conference Predicted.

Recorder Brown yesterday addressed a letter to Controller Larkin making further inquiry as to the financial status of the city and requesting suggestions as to the best method of reducing or wiping out entirely the apparent deficit of $1,364,703 42, as estimated by the controller on Wednesday.

Controller Larkin, immediately upon receipt of the recorder's letter, set his clerks at work arranging the information desired by the city's chief executive and will probably make a reply to-day.

It is anticipated that he will point out methods whereby the expenditures of the city may be materially reduced, and at the same time offer further suggestions for increasing the revenues.

The Recorder's Letter.

The two officials will confer and will endeavor to solve the problem. Deficits have been the rule in Pittsburgh's financial affairs, and this one is largely the result of others that have been carried along from year to year. The text of Recorder Brown's letter follows:

JOHN B. LARKIN, ESQ., City Controller:

Dear Sir—I acknowledge receipt of your official communication with reference to the financial affairs of the city of Pittsburgh, and I shall give it my earnest and careful consideration. It involves some legal enlightenment that I desire to have from the law department later on. There are, however, some additional financial figures which to me are necessary for a full consideration of this whole matter, and therefore I ask you for the following additional information:

First—To make a proper estimate and analyze the figures and statements and the arbitrary column of 52 per centum, which I presume you will admit there is no law for, as you use the word "arbitrary," and therefore it must of necessity not be a legal apportionment. I will need the following additional information, namely: A table showing the amount of estimated receipts, item by item, and the amounts collected from each particular item. Also a list of contracts recorded in your office and charged up to the particular appropriations and the unpaid balances on each of said contracts.

Second—Give me the necessary information so that I may understand where you get the estimated revenue to the end of the year amounting to $1,087,169 62.

Councils' Power to Borrow.

Third—You and I being the agents of the city to care for and properly distribute the revenues, what is your opinion, as city controller, as to the authority of councils, under the present charter, to solicit a temporary loan to meet the apparent deficiency as shown in the communication before me?

Fourth—In your interview with me you and I agreed fully in a rigid economy of the expenditure of the city. You suggested that a curtailment of the police force and fire department might be necessary. Do you recommend a reduction in the police bureau and fire bureau, the bureau of highways and sewers and the bureau of water supply and distribution to make up the apparent deficiencies?

Fifth—Do you, as financial agent of the city, say that steps must be taken to meet the apparent deficiency of $1,364,703 42?

With additional information asked I hope to be able to more fully understand the financial condition of the city and will then communicate with you later, as well as confer with and advise you.

Very truly yours,

J. O. BROWN,
City Recorder.

CHAPTER ADJOURNED.

Closing Meeting of the Passionist Order Held Yesterday on the Southside.

The triennial chapter of the Passionist order which has been meeting in St. Paul's monastery, South Side, for the past few days, adjourned yesterday afternoon. In addition to the announcement made in yesterday's Gazette, the following officials were elected: Consultors to the provincial, the Rev. Fathers Felix and George Basil; master of novices, the Rev. Father Fidelis (James Kent Stone). Father Fidelis succeeds the Rev. Father Dennis Caligee. The office of novice master is one of the most responsible in the order.

As already stated in The Gazette, Father Fidelis was formerly president of Kenyon college. He will assume charge this morning of the novitiate, which is connected with the monastery. Contrary to expectation, there were many changes in the rectorships throughout the country as follows: For St. Paul's monastery, the Rev. Father Michael; for St. Mary's, Dunkirk, N. Y., the Rev. Father Mark Moeslin; for Our Lady of Good Counsel, St. Louis, Mo., the Rev. Father Robert; for Holy Cross, Cincinnati, the Rev. Father Stanislaus Grennan; for St. Paul, Kansas, the Rev. Father Raymond O'Keefe; for St. Michael's, West Hoboken, N. J., the Rev. Father Justin Carey; for St. Joseph's, Baltimore, the Rev. Father Charles Lang; for Sacred Heart, Louisville, Ky., the Rev. Father Robert McNamara.

Fathers Justin Carey and Stanislaus Grennan are two of the youngest priests in the order. The latter has been vicar of the house in Cincinnati and the former vicar of St. Paul's, South Side. The fathers will leave for their various charges today.

NOVEL and exceedingly picturesque was the appearance of the lawns surrounding the Pittsburgh Country club last evening. It was the occasion of the fourth of the fortnightly open-air concerts which have been such a pleasing innovation of club life at the club in the Beechwood boulevard this season. The background afforded by the stately old trees which have been known to Pittsburghers for several generations, the old colonial mansion, the groups of animated men and women, the tables which were placed here and there on the lawns before the club house, and the fantastic light cast from the innumerable Japanese lanterns and vari-colored lamps which were suspended from the trees made an ensemble delightful to the eye.

Most of the members of the club drove out to the club house in natty traps and park wagons; some arrived in motor cars and a few on horseback. A number spent the afternoon on the golf links, going up to the clubhouse for dinner. From 7 o'clock until 11 a concert was given by the American Military band, the program having been especially arranged for the occasion and adding much to the charm of the unconventional arrangements.

Coard-Smith.

The wedding of Miss Janey Mulhern Coard, the only daughter of Mrs. Jane A. Hall of Maple lane, Sewickley, and Anthony W. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith of Rose ridge, Mt. Washington, took place yesterday afternoon. The marriage was solemnized at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Coard, the brother and sister-in-law of the bride, in Howe street, East End, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Howard Boyd of Mount Lebanon, an intimate friend and former schoolmate of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McFall, the new pastor of the Sewickley Baptist church. Only the two immediate families were present, the wedding guests, who sat down to one large round table for luncheon soon after the ceremony, numbering less than a dozen.

The house was beautifully decorated in green and white. White roses were the only flowers, while the broad doorways and arches connecting the drawing room, where the ceremony was performed, the library and the large reception hall, were wreathed with smilax and trailing vines. Roses were everywhere and in the dining room composed the center piece upon the luncheon table. The ices were served in the form of roses and in every way possible the combination of the two colors appeared. The bride, who is well-known as a club woman and as a writer, was prettily gowned in white organdie and lace and her shower bouquet consisted of white bride's roses and lilies of the valley. There were no attendants.

Later in the day the bride and bridegroom started north for a month or two to spend their honeymoon, but have announced at home days after November 1, at their new home, No. 5918 Ellwood street, East End.

Because of recent changes in the plans of the bride, the wedding was held at the home of her brother in the East End, instead of at her own home in Sewickley. Mrs. Hall's recent purchase of a new home in the East End, and the consequent moving from Sewickley to Pittsburgh this month, necessitated the change in arrangements.

Mrs. Smith, until a couple of months ago, was the owner and editor of the Sewickley Valley, and with her mother has made her home for the last five years in Sewickley. From her mother she inherited her literary abilities. Her grandfather, the late Rev. D. Mulhern, her mother's father, was well-known as an eloquent and influential Baptist minister, both in America and in the British isles.

The "Brownies" Tally-Ho Party.

The "Brownies" gave a tally-ho party on Wednesday evening, driving to Claysville. All were from Allegheny and included Miss Lena Johnson, Miss Sue Swan, Miss Molly Vell, Miss Gertrude Trufler, Miss Lottie McKain, Miss Bessie Swan, Miss Alice Trefethen, Miss Nettie Johnson, Miss Bessie Adams, Miss Lillie Blewett, Stewart McMinn, George Patterson, Earl Burt, John Jones, Edward Lanham, Walter Trimble, Joseph McGraw, Mont Wishmeyer, Ed Harper, Thrush Elliott, F. Irwin, George Myers, Francis Trimble and Samuel McMinn. They were chaperoned by Mrs. J. H. Adams. All wore Panama hats, trimmed in yellow and black, the club colors.

Last of the Drill Corps Dances.

The last of the summer evening dances of Pittsburgh commandery No. 1, K. T. drill corps, will be given on Thursday evening, August 28, at Oakwood park. The committee in charge has made arrangements for a pleasant evening's enjoyment and a large attendance is assured.

Returned from Their Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., have returned from their wedding trip, their honeymoon having been spent in European travel. They are now established in their new home in Amberson avenue, Shadyside, next door to Judge Acheson's home. The house was formerly occupied by George R. Acheson. Mr. and Mrs. Acheson, Jr., were married in June, their wedding being one of the most beautiful affairs of the kind in Pittsburgh last season. The bride was Miss Margaret Hawkins, eldest daughter of Judge and Mrs. William G. Hawkins, Jr., also of Amberson avenue.

Hanna-Hannan.

Miss Mattie Myrtle Hanna, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Hanna of Sharon, Pa., and Robert W. Hannan of Pittsburgh, were married at the home of the bride's mother yesterday morning. The event, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, was a very quiet home affair. The Rev. J. R. Rankin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Sharon, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony in the presence of the relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride is a social leader in her home town and active in church work. Mr. Hannan has resided all his life in Pittsburgh, and is very well known in social and business circles, having been connected with the South Penn Oil Company in a clerical way for a number of years.

After the ceremony the happy couple left for a stay at Atlantic City, and before returning will visit a number of eastern cities. After they return to Pittsburgh, their future residence, they will be "at home" to their friends at No. 107 Burrows street, Oakland.

Soon to Go to Egypt.

The Rev. Howard Boyd of Mt. Lebanon, who officiated at the wedding of Miss Janey M. Coard and Anthony W. Smith, Jr., yesterday afternoon, in the East End, leaves in October for Egypt. The Rev. Mr. Boyd graduated last spring from the United Presbyterian Theological seminary in Allegheny, and immediately went to Mt. Lebanon. He has been appointed by the United Presbyterian church as instructor in the United Presbyterian college in Egypt. Mr. Boyd expects to remain at his post for seven years before returning to this country.

In Honor of a Pittsburgh Bride.

Mrs. Nathaniel R. Evans, a recent Pittsburgh bride, and Miss Maude Roberts of Morganza, were guests of honor at a pretty luncheon given on Wednesday by Miss Jessie Benton Roberts, at her home in Morganza. Covers were laid for 12 and the guests included, Miss Lyda M. Simcox, Miss Jean Brown, Miss Anna Brown, Miss Blanche Boland, Miss Mabelle Rigdon, Miss Sylvia Harper, Miss Nellie Heeren, Miss Eleanor Kelly and Mrs. James H. Bigger.

An Engagement Announced.

Miss Edna Henrietta Mueller announced her engagement to Dr. Joseph Elwood Willetts of the Hotel Schenley, yesterday afternoon, at a little luncheon she gave for a few friends at her home in Dithridge street, Bellefield. The wedding will take place in October, in the East Liberty Presbyterian church. Miss Mueller is the daughter of John H. Mueller and is well-known in social circles in the East End.

MUSH MALADIES.

For years we have had tea drinker's disorder, coffee drinker's complexion and now we have the mush malady or starch indigestion (amylaceous dyspepsia). This is the result of the extensive use of oatmeal mush, rice mush and other pasty foods, which do not digest well, but ferment, forming acids and poisons which irritate the small intestine, congest the stomach and liver, impoverish the blood, irritate the nerves, weaken the muscles and sap the vital energies, inducing exhaustion, pain and disease. The prevention and the remedy is to use that appetizing food, Toasted Wheat Flakes, sweetened with Malt Honey. Each flake is thoroughly cooked and toasted so that the starch is turned to dextrine and is at once digestible. Each package of the genuine bears a picture of the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

PIRATES AND GIANTS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER

Champions Took the First and Visitors Won the Second Easily.

LEEVER IN GREAT FORM

The Schoolmaster Decisively Outpitched Mathewson — McGinnity Was Too Much in Second and Deacon Phil's Slants Were Hit Hard.

An even split was the best the champions could do in their double-header with the Giants yesterday, winning the first game by a score of 2 to 0 and dropping the second one by a score of 8 to 1. Over 4,000 people turned out to see the contests and were treated to some good ball playing by the champions in the first game and some very indifferent work in the second.

The opening contest proved to be a pitchers' battle between Christy Mathewson and Sam Leever, and the schoolmaster carried off the honors in a most decisive manner. Leever clearly outpitched the great Matty, letting the Giants down with but three hits, two singles and a three-bagger, the latter by virtue of poor fielding on the part of Jimmy Burke. The Pirates managed to get six hits off Christy, on which they scored two runs, which were sufficient to win the game. Leever showed the steadiest work, giving but one base on balls, while Mathewson furnished two passes to first.

First Contest a Good One.

The first game was the one which gave the spectators the worth of their money, because it was a fight from start to finish and neither team could lay a strong claim to victory until the last man was put out. The game abounded in pretty plays and fast, snappy work on the part of the players on both sides. Mugsy McGraw was on hand and led the Giants in their hopeless battle, but they went down with colors flying and fighting to the last ditch.

The second game was something of a nightmare to the followers of the champions, who had hoped for a double victory but were doomed to disappointment. The Pirates, finding they were unable to solve that rise ball of McGinnity's, grew extremely careless in their work, and the visitors were allowed to score runs almost at will. Add to this the fact that Deacon Phillippe, who was doing the pitching for the locals, had a bad day and his curves were handled rather roughly by the Giants, in fact, it was about the worst game the deacon has pitched this season.

The Double Steal Worked.

In the first contest the champions got a run in the third inning when, with two out, Tommy Leach smashed the ball against the left field bleachers and registered on base No. 3 before it could be fielded in. Wagner then drove a hot one through George Smith and Tommy tallied the first run. The other run was scored in the eighth inning after two were out. Wagner doubled to right and proceeded to steal third. Ritchey was furnished a base on balls and the double steal was successfully worked. Honus scoring, much to the disgust of Pitcher Mathewson, who fired his glove on the ground and gave other evidences of bad temper.

In the second game the visitors scored their first run in the fourth inning, when Browne doubled to left, went to third on Bresnahan's infield single and scored on the latter's out at second. In the fifth Brodie was hit by a pitched ball, Bowerman singled, Lauder tripled to left, Smith infield singled and Browne beat out a bunt, all of which netted three runs. One was scored in the sixth on Bresnahan's triple to left and McGraw's out at first. Another was tallied in the eighth on Bresnahan's double and Brodie's single. In the ninth Lauder made his second three-bagger and scored on Smith's double to right, which should have been an easy out, but Beaumont and Burke collided while chasing the ball. Smith, by daring baserunning, scored on McGann's out at first.

Only Got One Run.

The Pirates' only run in the second game was scored by Phillippe in the third inning, when he led off with a single, went to second on Clarke's sacrifice and scored on Beaumont's single to center. There were chances to score runs after that, but McGinnity's pitching was too much for Clarke's batters. The scores:

NOTES OF THE GAMES.

Beaumont drew a hearty round of applause from the spectators in the sixth inning of the first game when he got McGraw's liner after a long run across the field and while he was bent almost double. It was Mugsy's best bid for a hit, and the Giants' new leader looked none too well pleased when Beau gathered the ball in.

Bowerman was forced to quit in the sixth inning of the second game when a foul tip from Wagner's bat caved in the Giant catcher's mask and made a deep cut in his forehead just above the left eye, from which the blood flowed freely. Bresnahan was brought in from right to do the catching and Dunn went to right field, where he rendered splendid service.

Umpire O'Day had three close decisions to make in the fourth inning of the first game, and the champions did not get justice on any of them. It looked from the scorer's box as though Beaumont had beaten out his hit and was on the bag just a second before McGann, but O'Day ruled otherwise. Beau registered a kick, and it's not often the middle fielder protests.

Harry Smith, who caught the first game, had troubles of his own all through the contest. Harry was stopping foul tips with his head, body and hands, and finally he got one on the foot that made him hop about in pain, and time had to be called in order to allow the catcher to rest up. Leever was shooting the ball all around the plate and this made the catcher's work very hard.

The first game yesterday was a beauty, the players being right up on their toes from start to finish, and the result was some fast and pretty plays. Leever was in great pitching form and showed more speed than in any game during the season. Sammy whizzed the ball over the plate and for the first six innings the Giants did not get a hit, although a couple of good bids for safeties were murdered by Wagner and Leach.

If Frank Bowerman is not a little more careful he will knock some player's head off with the ball one of these days. Bowerman is stuck on his throwing arm, and at the end of each inning he shoots the ball down to second with the speed of a bullet. Harry Smith had a close call yesterday and dropped to the ground just in time to save himself. Umpire O'Day also was called on to do some lively dodging on one or two occasions.

In the Giants' half of the eighth inning of the first game George Smith singled, stole second and Willie Leach was having an argument with the umpire he left third uncovered and Smith promptly moved up. There was an awful kick and Manager Clarke wanted Smith sent back to second, claiming time had been called, but the umpire denied this and refused to order the runner back. In the jawing that followed O'Day claimed Clarke was trying to make a monkey out of him, and the Pirates' manager retorted that nature saved him any trouble in that respect.

Honus Wagner's one-handed catch of Leach's bad throw on McGann's bounder in the ninth inning was one of the features of the first game. The play had to be made quickly and Tommy's throw was more of the best, but Honus kept one foot on the bag, and reaching out his left hand got the ball and held to it.

When Wagner and Ritchey pulled off the double steal in the ninth inning of the first game and Honus got home with his run Christy Mathewson was furious and acted very much on the order of a spoiled child. He threw his fielding glove violently to the ground, paced about the field like an enraged beast, and wound up by telling Bowerman a few things about the way the game should be played.

ADMIT THEY WERE IN PITTSBURGH

JOHNSON AND SOMERS SAY THEY WERE LOOKING OVER GROUND.

Acknowledge They Talked With Several Pirates Who Would Join a Team If It Is Placed Here—Claim They Can Secure Grounds.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—"Sure, we were in Pittsburgh," said Ban Johnson, the president of the American league, this afternoon, as he and Charles W. Somers, the vice president of the league, sat in the latter's office discussing their trip with J. F. Kilfoyl, the president of the Cleveland club.

"I see Mr. Dreyfuss says he had no objection to our coming after his players and bidding fairly for them, but that he did object to what he claimed were gumshoe methods. What did he expect—that we were going to have several brass bands at the station to meet us, that we should have let him know a week in advance that we were coming? His remarks surprise me.

"We went to Pittsburgh to look over the ground so as to be prepared to intelligently discuss the situation when the American league holds its annual meeting in Chicago. We also talked with several of the members of the Pittsburgh team, and I can safely say that if we place a team in Pittsburgh some of the men now drawing salaries from Mr. Dreyfuss will be members of that team. Those that we talked with like the American league, and, as they also like Pittsburgh, we will allow them to remain there, that is, of course, if we place a team in Pittsburgh."

"While in Pittsburgh," said Mr. Somers, "we looked at several pieces of ground suitable for a baseball park, and found that the claims of the National league that we would not be able to find grounds were ill-founded. There are plenty of good grounds there, so that will be the least of our difficulties. Yes, I am well pleased with the result of our visit, and am confident that if the American league places a team in Pittsburgh, it will win out over the National league, as it has in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis. It will only be an illustration of history repeating itself. The American baseball public has in two years placed its indorsement upon American league ball, and wherever we go, we get the crowds. That we will fall in Pittsburgh is beyond my belief. The people there are sick of the Brush-Freedman regime and their methods, and will, I believe, welcome our league. As to O'Connor, whom I see has been suspended by Dreyfuss, I have been told that Dreyfuss said a month ago he knew that Jack had signed with St. Louis for next year."

Both Johnson and Somers refused to say what players they had talked with or whether or not they had actually secured any signatures to American league contracts. Neither would they admit that even O'Conner had signed.

HAVE NOT YET SIGNED.

Pittsburgh's Holdout Players Still on the Fence.

There were no new developments in local baseball circles yesterday regarding that attempt to wreck the Pittsburgh club which the officials so successfully blocked on Wednesday.

President Dreyfuss' said that none of the holdout players had signed their contracts for next year, and he did not bother them about the matter, preferring to allow them to take their own time. Catcher O'Connor, the suspended player, did not put in an appearance at the park. Those who are close friends of the deposed catcher say that he will not talk on the matter.

Big Trot Won in Straight Heats

THE READVILLE PRIZE TAKEN BY MAJOR DELMAR

Won the Big Massachusetts Stakes in Very Easy Fashion.

RACE A DISAPPOINTMENT

Thought It Would Be Close and a Record Broken, but It Proved Otherwise — Lady Thisbe, the Wheeling Horse, Finished Second.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Readville, Mass., Aug. 21.—The Massachusetts stake race for 2:12 class trotters, the biggest prize of grand circuit week at the Readville track, proved to be a commonplace affair this afternoon, through Major Delmar winning three straight heats. Before the race the wiseacres were picking The Roman to win, purely on his splendid races of late. The gelding made a miserable showing, seldom having speed enough to get ahead of the second platoon.

Maj. Delmar's victory, after the money had been won, looked a simple one, considering he took the 2:13 trot at Detroit and the 2:16 trot in Cleveland and against fields that did not make him reach top speed. The stake record of 2:08 was safe today, but with close finishes it might have been equaled if not broken. The absence of keen racing made the event fall flat to everyone who had not taken The Roman at 8 to 1. Maj. Delmar is owned by George Vandyke of Boston.

Wheeling Mare Second.

The Wheeling, W. Va., mare, Lady Thisbe, took second money, and the southern mare, Dulce Cor, third.

The racing card of five events was interrupted by showers, but the excellent condition of the track was not spoiled. The first event, the 2:21 trot, was won by the favorite local horse, Kwanen, in straight heats.

The Massachusetts stake came next with 17 horses. Before the field scored for the first heat Starter Walker cautioned the drivers to get away quickly with the exceptional result that the word was given the second time the horses came to the wire.

Ruth M had the pole, but Maj. Delmar took it at the quarter, with Lady Thisbe at his flank. The roan broke and the heat was soon settled with no indication that Maj. Delmar would be beaten out. The next two heats were about of the same style, except in the third, Dulce Cor beat out Lady Thisbe in the stretch for second place. Thus the stake was won with little of the excitement which has marked its winning in years past.

In the 2:06 pace the Albiny (N. Y.) horse, Dariel, won the favorite, Fred S. Wedgewood, driven by Geers, being distanced in the first heat.

A Race Full of Breaks.

The race for foals of 1899 for a purse of $2,000, was full of breaks, making the youngsters see-saw to the front in interesting fashion until the bay colt, Chesco, from Donerail, Ky., after finishing fifth and fourth in the first two, won the next two heats handily.

The last race was another trot for the 2:21 class, seven horses starting, Wilton Boy winning in one, two, three order. Summaries:

SOMBRERO WON HURON HANDICAP

THE RACE WAS RUN ON A VERY SLOPPY TRACK.

Andy Williams Made a Game Try, but Couldn't Get There—One Jockey Suspended and Another Dies as a Result of Injuries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Green B. Morris' 3-year-old Sombrero showed his liking for sloppy going by galloping home an easy winner in the Huron handicap today. 3 lengths in front of Andy Williams. Sombrero was a strong favorite for the race, and led all the way. John A. Scott, added by a running start, made every post a winning one in the handicap for 2-year-olds. Shorthose was second; Skilful, the even money favorite, being no better than third.

Gunfire won the six furlong dash in a gallop. Octoroon finally graduated from the maiden ranks and will be retired to the stud. Handicapper, after winning the mile selling event, was bid up and bought by Alexander Shields for $800, an advance of $300 over his entered selling price.

THE MIDSUMMER STAKES.

They Were Won by Philo After a Furious Drive.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The Midsummer stakes, the feature at Hawthorne today, were won by Philo with a length to spare, after a furious drive down the home stretch. Rheta secured second place a length in front of Flo Carline. Gold Bell and Poor Boy, the former being favorite in the betting, were never serious contenders. The stake was worth $1,800 to the winner. Five of the ten starters met with mishap in the jumping race, and Jockey Kelly, who rode Ile ae, was carried off the field on a stretcher, apparently seriously injured. Bartley, who rode Stamp, suffered from a broken collarbone, and Wilson, who had the mount on Ada S. G., was severely cut about the head. Lucien Appleby was the only winning favorite, the other events going to second choices and outsiders in the betting. Weather cloudy and threatening; track slow.

Refused to Finish the Game.

CANONSBURG, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Washington refused to play and the game was forfeited to Canonsburg, 9 to 0. The score was 9 to 8 in favor of Washington in the eighth inning when there was a dispute between the scorers, and Washington refused to play.

Romero Got a Bumping.

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Romero lasted just one inning today, Altoona hitting him savagely and winning the game in the first. Rover supplanted him and did well. Vell pitched superbly and the locals gave him gilt-edged support. Score:

Altoona	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0	5	4

Batteries—Romero, Royer and Moran; Vell and Lang.

Game by Electric Light at Millvale.

The Junction and Millvale teams will play tonight at Millvale, aided by the use of electric light. These clubs are now considered about the best we have in this neck of the woods and as they have not met for several seasons the game promises to be a most interesting affair. Cushman and Pfeifer will be the battery for Millvale, with Douglas and Fohl for the Junctions.

Dwyers Beat Our Boys.

The Our Boys of Etna and the Dwyer A. C. team of Lawrenceville played a game of ball at Etna last night under electric light. A big crowd turned out to see the game, but after the fifth inning it was one constant struggle between the players, and many times the spectators crowded onto the field, delaying the game. Score:

Our Boys	1 0 1 0 0 0 1 2 0—5	6	3
Dwyers	1 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 2—6	5	3

Batteries—Irwin and Neff, Vincent and Taylor.

Another for Wheeling.

WARREN, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The locals were again defeated by Wheeling today in a tussle game which, although close, was uninteresting. Both teams were dopy and allowed chances to escape them. Lytle's batting and fielding were the only features of the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Warren	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 2—4	10	6
Wheeling	0 0 1 0 2 1 1 0 *—5	7	5

Homestead's Bad Defeat.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Homestead came very near being shut out by East Liverpool this afternoon. Probably that would have been the result by for an inopportune error by the locals. Maley pitched one of the prettiest games seen on the local grounds this season. The contest was virtually decided in the first inning, when East Liverpool got five hits and seven runs. The score:

RUSSELL SAGE DEAD AGAINST MORGAN IDEAS

Aged Financier Gives Father of New Combinations Plan Severe Jolt.

MENACE TO GOVERNMENT

[BY LEASED WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Something very unusual must have happened to Russell Sage. He was voluble today, and, more surprising still, he spoke strongly against modern financial tendencies. His implied criticism of Mr. Morgan's methods created a great deal of surprise in the Wall street community. He was particular to say that he had no quarrel with Mr. Morgan, but with the combination ideas for which Mr. Morgan stands. In short, he said Mr. Morgan is not too big to make mistakes, and in Wall street this is startling irreverence. Mr. Sage talked not to one newspaper reporter, but to as many as took the trouble to seek him out. To one he talked on his way to luncheon, to another on his way back, and to yet others, in his private office. The substance of what he said to all may be given as follows:

"Combinations of all great industries are a menace to the government. Such combinations are not only a menace, but are oppressors of the people. Should an era of combinations ensue the American people will certainly revolt against them, and if they do there will be financial ruin such as people have never dreamed of in the history of the world.

Time for Combinations.

"There are certain times when combinations are useful and beneficial. When several industries are beginning business it is well for the individuals to combine for mutual protection until the business is gotten on its feet. When the business is firmly established the combination should be disrupted and conducted along individual lines. The embarrassment of one individual would not mean the wrecking of industry. It is better to have such industries divided among several individuals than combined into one great corporation, the embarrassment of which would mean the ruin of all. The American people will most certainly revolt at no very distant time against the enormous combinations of the various industries. If continued, the combinations will some day result in financial ruin, not only to those interested, but to the whole country."

These are new thoughts from Mr. Sage, and the stock market community was bewildered. The bulls may be expected to represent that Mr. Sage is in his dotage. This may be partly true, although he is still sharp at business, as anyone who lately has had dealings with him knows. Something must have happened to him, nevertheless, something very much out of the ordinary to move him to express such strong anti-trust ideas as these.

Have Just Begun to Fight.

The following private dispatch was published here today as having been sent from New York by Charles G. Gates to the Chicago offices of Harris, Gates & Co.:

"The break in Colorado Fuel has cleaned the sheet of weak holders. People have read the airing given in the newspaper headings about Gates' Waterloo, and have come to the conclusion that we are licked in this deal. But we have only started. I think worst is over and that the break yesterday will be the low point for some time to come, as I do not see how anything can happen now except for the better."

This dispatch evidently was written before the opening of the stock market this morning. Its reference to the "break yesterday" meant the stock's decline in Wednesday's session 8 points to 80¾. "Charley" Gates was a poor prophet when he said that that price was likely to be low for some time to come. The stock broke 8 points more today, to the extreme low price of 75. The firm of Harris, Gates & Co. figured largely in the selling. "Charlie" Gates admitted after the close of the market that his crowd had been selling the stock. His explanation was that matters were up in the air and that some people thought it would be just as well to stand out for a while.

Pig Iron Situation.

Rogers, Brown & Co., in their weekly review of the pig iron situation, say: The reports of slackening of buying of pig iron for next year are not confirmed by latest advices from the leading centers. The tonnage booked for the past week has been very heavy, and covers all grades and qualities of iron. One by one the furnace companies are dropping out of the market, having filled their books to July 1, 1903. The leading southern companies, which have been the principal factors in this activity for some weeks, are reported to be well filled to the middle of next year, and while there is no change in prices, those who now try to secure $17 Alabama iron for 1903, are not successful. The fuel problem comes to the front as the chief factor in restricting output of pig. This applies not only to the anthracite coal region in the east, but to the western furnaces dependent upon Pennsylvania coke.

The soft coal trade is in a generally chaotic state, and considerable anxiety prevails, arising from a variety of causes. The principal uneasiness is the fear that when the strike is settled, the railroads will divert so many cars to the hard coal mines to catch up with the accumulated demand that it will be more difficult than at present to get soft coal to market.

Will Hurt Steam Users.

Moreover, the operators are likely to fill the demand for what is known as "prepared sizes" first, as there is much more profit in handling them, leaving pea and buckwheat coal to be moved later. As the latter are the grades most in demand for steam and other commercial purposes, the lack of them will continue to retard the soft coal market, just as it does at present. Even when the present abnormal demand for soft coal will continue for some time after the strike ends, while it will be very much more difficult for the operators to obtain cars with which to fill the demand. A member of a firm which operates its own soft coal collieries said today:

"The first effect of the settlement of the coal strike will probably be to make it more difficult than ever for large consumers of coal to obtain their supplies. Our collieries have a capacity of 325 cars per day, but since the strike is on we have been able to get only from 100 to 200 cars per day to load. How many we will be able to get when the anthracite mines begin producing is a question. The operators will begin filling the mines and the sidings with cars the moment a settlement is in sight, and will thus deprive the soft coal mines of cars a week before they can begin shipping hard coal."

Stock Market Weakened by Liquidation

WALL STREET WAS WEAKENED BY LIQUIDATION

All Effort to Support the Market Finally Disappeared.

MONEY NOT SO ABUNDANT

Sub-Treasury Shipments to New Orleans and Cincinnati Caused Fear That the Interior Movement of Currency Has Fairly Set In.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Active speculative liquidation became manifest in today's stock market and at the close the selling movement was urgent and somewhat precipitate. During the earlier part of the day some stand was made against the tendency to depression and a few stocks were pushed up at different times as sustaining influence on the market, but the selling to realize elsewhere in the market was steadily going on all the time.

At the last the liquidation seemed to have proceeded to such an extent that the efforts to support the market were withdrawn and all semblance of resistance to the weakness disappeared. The stocks which were notably strong yesterday and for some time previously started out at declines this morning and showed the largest effect of the selling pressure at the last.

Some small gains were retained even at the last in a few of the stocks which had risen earlier, but in others the gains were more than wiped out. The upward movement in the Denver & Rio Grande stocks which developed during the day after a period of quiet, was the most conspicuous, but Denver & Rio Grande closed with a substantial net loss. Louisville & Nashville was notably weak, and fell back at one time 3 points.

Pressure Upon Shorts.

The advance in Western Union was said to be due to pressure upon the shorts, the demand for the stock in the loan crowd being such as to command a premium. With the exception of Texas & Pacific and Ontario & Western the other demonstrations of strength were in minor railroad and industrial stocks.

The acute weakness of Colorado Fuel, which carried it down in the late dealings 8 points, was also an unsettling influence upon the whole market. The failure of the speculative operator who has led the advance in the stock to obtain control of the property has resulted in heavy speculative liquidation.

There was a notable absence of demand at the close, even from the professional short interests, which must have been active on the downward course of prices during the day and the closing tone was distinctly weak. There was no actual new development to account for the sudden disposition to sell stocks, but there was a very material change in sentiment, which caused an altered view of the same conditions as existed yesterday.

Expectations Not Realized.

The sentimental character of yesterday's rise and that which had preceded it for several days left a great probability of a reaction. Extravagant as were the expectations as to the promplitude and extent of the measures which Mr. Morgan would take to improve the situation, there was some disappointment this morning over the delay. The hope seemed to be that Mr. Morgan's hurried visit to his office immediately upon landing from the steamer would result in the settlement off-hand of all the various problems which have accumulated during his absence of several months.

Yesterday's professed confidence in the secure abundance of funds for speculative purposes was changed today. The engagement last night of $100,000 by telegraphic transfer through the sub-treasury to Cincinnati came too late for effect upon the stock market. That shipment was supplemented today by another one of $100,000 to New Orleans and the fear was awakened that the interior movement of currency has fairly set in.

The sterling exchange market was also notably firm, reflecting the very heavy short interest existing in that market. The disposition to realize was much emphasized by this development.

Bonds were quite active and became easy in sympathy with stocks. Total sales, par value, $2,585,000. United States new 4s and old 4s advanced ¼ per cent on the last call.

Talked About in Wall Street

[BY LEASED WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Herald this (Friday) morning says:

Speculative sentiment underwent no particular change in Wall street yesterday, despite the sharp reactions in the general security list. The demonstration attendant upon Mr. Morgan's homecoming appeared to have been a little overdone, particularly as it failed to influence public buying, but in view of the very sharp and substantial advances of recent days the trading element were not unprepared for some decline. The dealings of the day, like those of Wednesday, were purely professional in character and were unaccompanied by any important news developments of a depressing nature. Aside from Colorado Fuel, in which the selling at the last appeared to be of an urgent volume, there was little, if any, liquidation in the market. Professional realizing and distributive sales by pools and cliques appeared to be the feature of the trading.

In searching about for theories on which to explain the decline the street hit upon two, which were more or less satisfactory to the brokers. The first of these dealt with the defeat of the Gates party in the Colorado Fuel contest, which it was thought had somewhat impaired Mr. Gates' efficiency as a market leader and had entailed enormous losses upon his following, some of whom were forced to part with stocks. The other explanation was to the effect that the street was disappointed over the failure of Mr. Morgan to make some definite announcement of his position as to the anthracite coal strike. The street also professed to be disappointed because no announcement was made of the Louisville plan, but this was only a pretext, for no one has any warrant to expect an immediate announcement.

London prices came higher, and foreigners traded on both sides of the account, selling on balances. The total transactions were estimated at upward of 35,000 shares. Ontario & Western, United States Steel and Denver & Rio Grande were the principal issues dealt in for foreign account. Cable advices reported the London market as dull, developing a reactionary tendency toward the close under a further decline in consols, which were depressed in anticipation of the new Transvaal loan. The decline in consols was said to have influenced the entire London market.

In point of activity Denver & Rio Grande was the feature of the day. The stock was taken by brokers identified with both the Gould and Hawley interests, and also by some of the large traders. The sharp advance of Wednesday, followed by an early two-point gain in the early trading yesterday, brought forth extensive realizing and influenced a sharp reaction before the close. Nothing in the way of news developed in connection with the property, but vague rumors of impending developments were in circulation and friends of the property called attention to its relative cheapness as one of the points in its favor.

Banks and the Treasury.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—In redemption of checks drawn by depositors of gold at the San Francisco and Seattle assay offices today's official records show that the transactions aggregated $578,809; of this amount $310,000 had been deposited at San Francisco and $266,803 at Seattle; total thus paid since Friday, $978,291, against $451,491 for the same period a week ago. Total payment by government to New York banks for the day, $3,365,000; payment by banks to government, $3,341,000; balance on the day's transactions, $322,000, paid by government to banks; total net payment by government to banks since Friday, $1,325,000, against $772,000 paid by banks to government for the corresponding period a week ago.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

[BY LEASED WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Messrs. Lynch and O'Meara have surrendered their lease on the Mispah ledge of the Tonopah Company at Tonopah, Nev., for a bonus of $200,000. During their operations covering a period of three months they cleaned up $500,000. The ledge was seven feet wide when they quit, the ore running between $400 and $600 per ton. Two-thirds of the values were in silver and one-third in gold. The depth reached was 300 feet. Some experts estimate that should the ore hold out to a depth of 2,000 feet the yield of the property will be $80,000,000.

Machinery is being installed to work the large dumps of tailings at Silver Reef, Utah, which are said to be worth $1,250,000.

Owing to difficulties with the smelter trust about treatment charges the working force of the Horn Silver at Frisco, Utah, has again been reduced. The output is at present confined to high-grade ore.

The mill of the Annie Laurie on Gold Mountain, Utah, has started again and the output of the mine is being increased to 10,000 tons per month.

Fifteen men are employed in development on the Alma Grande Peak district, Ariz., which is making a good showing. A 12-inch vein of a new character of ore has been struck in the General Crook.

M'KEES ROCKS IMPROVED LOTS BRING $40,000

Commercial National Bank Will Remove to a New Location.

BELLEVUE IMPROVEMENTS

Wilkinsburg to Have $55,000 School Building—Sale of Wood Street Property Not Confirmed—Other Deals and Real Estate News.

The United Realty Trust Company has sold for Sponsler & Orr the last of their holdings in the Crescent Land Company's plan, McKees Rocks, to a purchaser whose name is withheld for the present. The sale involves 10 lots, measuring 25x120 feet each, in Island avenue, on which stand seven two-story frame dwellings and one three-story frame apartment and business house, the consideration being $40,000. The buildings are all new, having been erected within the last two years. The purchase was made for investment.

The Commercial National bank is to be removed to No. 331 Fourth avenue, in the office now occupied by the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company. This will give the bank separate and independent quarters, at the same time facilitating its operation in connection with the trust company, as openings will be made between the rooms occupied by the bank and the real estate and trust department, thus putting them under one roof.

This move will give the real estate company room for its large and growing business, at least until the present leases of tenants in the Dallmeyer block expire. This move fully sets at rest the question as to in whose interest the Dallmeyer block was purchased, as the president admitted that it was bought for his company and was purchased in advance of the time of gaining possession because there are so few if any other properties in the square which would be large enough that are purchasable. The intention is to improve the lot in due time, when the leases expire.

Bellevue Building Projects.

Plans are being prepared for the erection by a well-known builder of 19 houses in the Bellevue Terrace plan, all of which are in addition to the 20 dwellings now being built by George L. King, the owner of the plan, in North and Tingley avenues. The houses to be erected will front in several streets, two in Tingley avenue, two in Logan street, two in Oregon street, four in Maryland avenue, seven in Lenora street and two in Nevada street. The lots are 30 and 35 feet in width by an average depth of 120 feet. The buildings will be frame with eight rooms each, and will cost $4,

Local Stock Market Was Quite Dull, but Fairly Steady in Tone

RAIL COAL LED THE SELLING IN NARROW RANGE

Pittsburgh Brewing Common Advanced Nearly $1 at the Wind-Up.

STEEL SHARES WERE DULL

Westinghouse Issues Were Dull, the Electric Seconds Losing ¼--Switch and Signal Advanced--Window Glass Common Dull and Easy.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday was quite dull but fairly steady to firm in tone. With the exception of one or two issues there was very little of significance or particular interest. The sales amounted to a little over 4,100 shares and $3,000 bonds, being divided among 27 different securities, which was rather more than the usual number recently. Nine of these declined from ¼ to $5 a share, six advanced from ⅛ to $1, and the others closed unchanged from the preceding date. Out of the 27 all but 10 sold during the day without a single fluctuation in price, while several of the remainder only changed once. The principal trading was in Pittsburgh Coal common, which sold over 1,200 shares within the narrow range of ⅛, the opening and closing prices being at 28⅝, and the high at 28¾. The close was unchanged from the preceding day. The buyers of the stock have not appeared to any extent on that side of the market for some time, and none of the recently active traders had much to do with yesterday's movement. The preferred was less active, but firm and unchanged, at 91@90⅞. The other coal stocks were very quiet, the only sales being 120 shares of River Coal preferred, at 40⅜. The common was in fair demand, 12⅜ being bid for 1,000 shares. One of the strongest things on the list was Pittsburgh Brewing common, which closed with an advance of ⅞, at 28¾, 900 shares having changed hands during the day. The preferred was dull and ½ lower, at 46½. The activity which has prevailed in Philadelphia company common and Allegheny Valley preferred seems to have almost completely subsided. Only 125 shares of the Philadelphia company stock were sold, and the price was unchanged at 49¾. Allegheny Valley was not sold at all, but offered at 84½, without a bid. The steel shares were likewise dull, but quite steady. Crucible common advanced ⅛ to 22¼, and the preferred was ¾ higher, at 86¾, for a small lot. U. S. Steel common, after selling up to 41⅝, closed unchanged at 41¼. At the finish, however, it offered lower, at 40⅞, with 40½ bid for 500 shares. The preferred was very dull, at 90⅝ bid, and 90⅞ asked. The Westinghouse issues were dull, the electric seconds selling down ½ to 108½. The firsts closed at 110 bid. Westinghouse Airbrake sold a small lot at 185½, which was the last price of Wednesday, and Union Switch & Signal common advanced 81 to 95 for a small lot, though it closed offered at 94¾ regular, with only 93¼ bid. American Window Glass common was dull and ½ lower, at 62⅝ for 100 shares. National Fireproofing issues were very quiet, but practically unchanged, while Marsden was dull and ½ lower, at 4½. In the banking group, Federal National Bank advanced $1 to 140 sales, and bid for more. Pennsylvania Trust was $5 lower, at 240, and Safe Deposit & Trust ½ higher, at 275. United Realty Trust sold down $1 to 129. Real Estate Trust was firm at $285 sales and bid. State Bank advanced to 64 bid, a new high record, offers occurring at 65. Bonds were dull, but steady to firm. At the close the market was at its dullest.

FINANCIAL DRIFT.

Wall Street Brokers' "Tips."

Louisville looks a buy on this break.

There is confident bull talk on Ontario & Western.

The Gates influence shows in Denver, Western Union looks like going higher.

Keen tabs on Western Union. Something is going on. The Sidestreet nondigents say that Great Westerns is going to 30. The deal on Louisville & Nashville will make Nashville & Chattanooga sell very high. The low-priced anthracites, Reading, Central Southern, Pacific Mail and Colorado Southern will be bought. The Peoples Gas, Sugar, Manhattan and Telegraph are all shaping for marked advances. Buy Grass Twine for $0.—Josephs.

Dear Head Western Union will sell higher, the impression being that Jakey Field and some of his fellowing are short of the stock.

One of the large houses in the street has been a persistent seller of Union Pacific. We hear it has sold, finished and that an advance in that stock may be expected at an early date.

The country has had the most successful agricultural season in its history and profitable activity to a remarkable extent prevails and promises to continue in all the important industrial lines. Money is being attracted to this center both from abroad and from the interior to such an extent that rates for loans have shown a decidedly weak tendency ever since the beginning of the week. We believe that patient holders will buy lower prices stocks; crowded shorts will realize good profits. Southern Railway and Erie are both going much higher.—Lounsbery.

SUPT. M'ALEESE GETS FREE HAND FOR CLEANSING

Recorder Brown Announces That He May Work Out His Own Ideas.

TO BE NO INTERFERENCE

The Head of the Police Bureau May Now Carry on the Work of Reform Without Hindrance from Any Source.

John McAleese, superintendent of police, can now go ahead with a free hand in his oft-asserted program of "cleaning up" Pittsburgh. The interference of others, higher in authority, of which he has several times hinted, is now removed.

Recorder J. O. Brown yesterday afternoon said to a Gazette reporter: "Mr. McAleese will remain as superintendent of police. He will not resign, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. He is at liberty to conduct the police bureau absolutely as he pleases within bounds of law, and he will be subject to no interference at the hands of either Mr. Leslie or myself."

Superintendent McAleese has said that if he could have his own way in his bureau he would back a patrol wagon up to every speakeasy and disreputable resort in the city of Pittsburgh, and would clean them all out. There are certain evils which the department of public safety regards as necessities, but there are scores upon scores of resorts running openly in the city that should be suppressed.

Now Has Opportunity.

Mr. McAleese now has the opportunity which he has so long desired. The executive head of the city administration has given him a free hand for the work. Neither political pull nor any form of graft can save the offenders, if the superintendent of police carries out the policy he has so long advocated.

He will also be free to accomplish a complete reorganization of the now demoralized police force. The recorder has promised to keep not only his own hands but those of his public safety director off while Superintendent McAleese attempts to reorganize the police force.

As to whether he will begin on the force or the city first, that is a question for his own mind to decide. Probably he will remember the old adage about the origin of reform and begin at home. His work is cut out for him in the cleansing of the police bureau.

No permanent cleansing can be done in the city until the police force has first been purged of the elements that Superintendent McAleese has long expressed a desire to be rid of.

The exposures of the past few months in the columns of the public press have indicated many of the points where reform can begin without delay. There are others known to the public and still others known best of all to the officials of the police bureau.

Has a Powerful Agent.

After the weeding out process has been finished the superintendent can turn to the work of cleansing the city. He has his ideas on that subject and they have been made public. With a free hand and police force reorganized and disciplined and responsive to his slightest touch, there is a powerful agent of reform at his disposal.

Superintendent McAleese has expressed a desire to retire from the bureau of police, but has said that he would not desert a friend in need. He has also practically admitted that in many cases his hands have been tied, while never saying so in so many words.

It is believed that Recorder Brown is honest in his statement that no interference with the workings of the police bureau will be tolerated. This being the case, the much-needed reforms are up to John McAleese, and he has his opportunity to help his friend, the recorder, and work for the betterment of the police force and the city generally at the same time.

DIED OF PEMPHIGUS.

Unfortunate Man Who Came Here From Clearfield Succumbs to Ravages of a Rare Disease.

The death yesterday of Harry Grubbs, a railroader 30 years old, at No. 2915 Penn avenue, confirms the diagnosis of the man's illness made by the bureau of health physicians after some contentious discussions among doctors over the rare case. The disease Grubbs had is known in medical circles as pemphigus. It is a skin and blood disease, manifesting itself by the formation of large pus inflated blisters over the entire body. It is a disease rarely encountered, and the victim seldom if ever recovers.

About two weeks ago a physician called in to attend Grubbs reported to the bureau of health that the man had smallpox. Dr. E. G. Matson visited him, and decided it was not smallpox. After a consultation with Dr. B. A. Booth, also of the bureau of health, the two came to the conclusion that Grubbs was suffering from either pemphigus or impetigo. The latter is a disease resembling the other in appearance, but is not fatal.

While the doctors were disputing over the case the people who occupied the house where Grubbs lay sick sold all their household effects except those in the sick man's room. Efforts were made to get him into the West Penn hospital, but this failed because the doctors were divided in their opinion as to whether the case was any one of the three diseases mentioned.

Grubbs was without any one to care for him until the department of charities took charge at the suggestion of Dr. Booth. Grubbs came here from Clearfield, Pa.

CORONER HELD INQUEST.

Two Italians Were Cleared of Suspicion of Murder.

At the inquest into the death of Rocco Crone of No. 907 Wylie avenue, who died at the West Penn hospital from a fractured skull, on July 26, the coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict recommending that a negro nicknamed "Yellow," be apprehended and held for murder.

An inquest was also held in the case of Antonio Galleno of Norwood place, McKees Rocks, who died at the McKees Rocks hospital, August 12. He was found lying along the railroad tracks. It was thought Galleno had been murdered and Peter Mentonlarasa and Antonio Sysa were held for the inquest by the coroner. Yesterday it was proved that Galleno died from natural causes and the two men were released from jail.

A RAILROAD THAT MAY BLOCK WABASH

THE MONONGAHELA, ALLEGHENY & OHIO LINE CHARTERED.

It Is to Be Operated in Connection With the South Side Warehouse System. Projectors Deny That It Is the Intention to Hold Up the Wabash.

What appears to be another scheme to block the progress of the Wabash in its plan to build a line up the south side of the Monongahela river from its tunnel to the Jones & Laughlin plant was disclosed yesterday. It is a new railroad incorporation of the Henderson-Johnston interests, now known as the River & Terminal Company.

The name of this railroad is the "Monongahela, Allegheny & Ohio." Its route is rather vague at present. George W. C. Johnston, of the interested firm, would give little information. He denied that the purpose of the road is to keep the Wabash away. "We had planned this road along with our other warehouse scheme for a year or two," he said. "It was chartered some time ago, just when I will not say. The road is to connect with the Lake Erie and other railroads, and enter the warehouse system, which was designed for the property at South First and Carson streets, which the Wabash is now trying to condemn."

Chief Engineer J. W. Patterson of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western said that he knew nothing of the project.

The plan of the road, if it is to be used as a Wabash blockade, is that it will lie directly across the route of that road up the river and can hold up the Wabash crossings.

The outcome of the Pennsylvania's allowing the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie to use Panhandle property for Lake Erie tracks to keep the Wabash out has come in the form of condemnation proceedings by the Wabash against the Panhandle property. This land lies beneath the Panhandle bridge approach to the Monongahela. The amount of the condemnation bond is $25,000. It is expected that there will be a fight, both over the amount of the bond and over the right of the Wabash to condemn such property.

President Ramsey of the Wabash spent another busy day here holding conferences with the officials of the line and others interested in the plans. He expects to leave for St. Louis headquarters this evening.

MANY BONDS WITHDRAWN

Wabash Settles With a Number of Property Holders Whose Lands Were Condemned.

Louis Vierheller filed exceptions to the bond of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western Railroad Company in the matter of the condemnation of his property in the Thirty-second ward. He says the bond should be at least $10,000. Orders were made withdrawing bonds given by the same company as the result of settlements with property owners. They were Daniel Meise, Elizabeth McMurray, Hugh McMurray, Angelo Balbo, Anna B. Allen, Hugh H. Wilson, Sarah E. Clay and the estate of E. H. Cook.

The company also gave bond for $25,000 to the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company. The property sought is under the Panhandle bridge on the South Side.

Court Approves Bond.

The bond of the Pittsburgh Free Dispensary for the sale of three lots, at the corner of Seventh street and Duquesne way, to the National Casket Company, for $50,000, was approved by common pleas court No. 3, sitting yesterday. The petition set forth that the lots were purchased on June 10, 1901, from Mary B. Dalzell out of a voluntary subscription fund, and the board of managers consider the present price a fair one and adopted resolutions to that effect on June 10 last. The court ordered the dispensary to give bond in the amount of $100,000. The Pennsylvania Trust Company became surety.

STRANGE BUST OF CARNEGIE AT THE INSTITUTE

Has Been There for Three Months and No One Knows Donor.

IS NOT LIKE CARNEGIE

Evidently Modeled After a Photograph of 20 Years Ago—Came from Vienna and Was Modeled by a Famous Italian Sculptor.

A large gypsum model bust of Andrew Carnegie, received some time ago at the Carnegie institute, is causing much wonderment among the trustees as to who the donor is. The bust now adorns the top of a library case in Dr. W. J. Holland's office in the museum.

About three months ago Dr. Holland was notified by the local custom house officials that a consignment had been received for the institute. The duty and freight on the package had been prepaid and it was ordered sent to the museum.

There were no marks of identification on the box, nor was there a card or letter inside telling from whom or where the mysterious bust came. The bust was kept from view for several weeks, but finally was taken into Dr. Holland's office.

From the custom house officials it was learned that the bust had been shipped from Vienna, but further than that nothing could be ascertained. About a month after the bust had been received Dr. Holland received a letter from a New Yorker, asking if the bust had been received and also if all the charges had been paid.

It was thought by the director of the museum that this letter would lead to a clue that would solve the mystery, and communication was opened at once with the New Yorker. No reply has been received and Dr. Holland is in a greater quandary than ever.

The bust does not resemble Mr. Carnegie greatly. It is all probability was made from an old photograph which has long since been called in by the great philanthropist. The expression on the face is a sad one and very uncharacteristic of the famous Pittsburgher.

The name of the modeler of the bust is Prof. F. Gentile, who is said to be a famous Italian sculptor. The name is traced in the extreme left-hand corner and cannot be seen at the first glance.

The bust stands about five feet high by three feet wide. It is made of pure gypsum and coated with a greenish substance, giving it the appearance of bronze. An amusing feature is that a standing collar is placed around the neck, something Mr. Carnegie is said not to have worn for 20 years. A string tie is around the collar. The cut of the vest is rather English in design. The coat is made with a soft roll collar.

While considerable speculation is indulged in among those connected with the Carnegie institute, it is believed that it was sent by one of Mr. Carnegie's personal friends, who, during a trip abroad, saw the cast, purchased it and sent it to the institute.

SOUTHERN ROADS WORKING TO AID SOUTHERN CITIES

Deep Cut Made in Freight Rates from Coal Fields to Trade Centers.

GUFFEY BUYING UP LAND

Pittsburgher Redeems Large Number of Options in West Virginia—Senator Elkins Secures 10,000 Acres in Preston County.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Baltimore, Aug. 21.—In an article in this week's Manufacturers Record discussing the development of southern mineral resources through railroad extension, Frederick E. Saward, after pointing to the fame won by New river steam coal and to the expansion of the coal mining industry in Alabama in recent years, and to the prospects of that industry when the Warrior river coal may be laid down at New Orleans by the all-water route at a less figure than coal is to be had for now at any seaboard point, says:

The West Virginia Central is making every preparation to increase its tonnage, and statements have been made by parties connected with it that the annual tonnage will run up to 5,000,000, and that this will be marketed without any interference with what might be called the interests of other lines, simply because there will be a demand for this coal and the West Virginia Central will have equipment to take care of it.

There is a demand for soft coal in all the cities, both east and west, and the production is increasing in all the states of the south, but the demand keeps up so that in many districts the price has already been advanced.

Makes New Record.

The coal tonnage of the Norfolk & Western for the month of July was the largest July in its history, and I am told that August is expected to be even greater; the possibilities for the next year are ahead of any tonnage heretofore known, and yet the Norfolk & Western turned over 5,605,840 tons of coal and 1,390,147 tons of coke in the fiscal year last reported on. If the railroad company can furnish the facilities for transporting the coal the field's output this month bids fair to be the largest in its history. The activity of the Seaboard Air line in Southwestern Virginia has already been made public, but when the line from Lincolnton to Southport, N. C., shall have been completed another large carrier of bituminous coal will be available for the coastwise trade; in fact, it is said that this will give the Seaboard a position as a bituminous coal carrier equal in many respects to the leading systems devoted to that trade.

That the railroads of the south are making every effort to build up the general trade of the cities in the south is seen in the competition for business.

Advantageous Freight Rates.

The rate of freight on coal has been made $1 a ton from all the coal mines into Memphis. The Illinois Central was the first to make this advantageous rate, followed by the Southern and the Louisville & Nashville. The reduction which the railroads have given in the coal rates will amount to over $100,000 annually from the tariff of the past winter and spring. That amount will be saved to the dealers of Memphis, and manufacturers using steam power, and at the same time industry and general business will be increased by this stimulating effort of the railroad companies.

The land taken up by Senator Elkins in Preston county, West Virginia, runs up to 10,000 acres, on which mines are to be opened as soon as the surveys have been completed. A railroad is to be built to connect with the Baltimore & Ohio at Rawlesburg, O. I hear that Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh has taken up the options which he secured several months ago on coal lands in the eastern section of Taylor county, West Virginia, and it is stated that the newly acquired property will be opened up at an early date. When the Berwynd-White people get at work on their 23,000-acre tract down in the Pocahontas district things will hum along the Norfolk & Western. I am told that development work will be going on there before frost comes in that section. We need all this coal development, for our industries devoted to the production of everything needed at home and abroad are all growing, and none of them can exist or flourish without coal, and the south has plenty of it.
